Faculty. Students. Townspeople. All of these three elements are essential in having a thriving community. The faculty must support the students, the students must support the townspeople, and the townspeople must support the faculty, and so on. It is a never-ending cycle that must keep going or the machine will fall apart.

The 1972-73 Yamparika staff feels that the most important factor in a workable community is understanding and unity. The three groups must understand that they are a vital part of the whole, and that they need the other two parts to function properly. The high school students must learn to accept the uniformity of the adult world, just as the adult world must accept the blue jeans and work shirts of the students. They must realize that the administration is pulled both ways by the other two elements of the machine. Until this is taken care of, the machine is in danger of breaking down.

What this staff proposes to do is show the three elements working together in the book. So give a little, if necessary, or maybe try a little harder to understand parents and faculty.

Just Come Together

Carolyn Grimes — Co-Editor Janice Byrd — Co-Editor

Vernon High School, like all high schools, is a mixture of happiness and sadness, pride and embarrassment, and beginnings and endings. The happiness of being a senior is all too soon replaced with the sadness in the realization that soon high school will be behind you. After all the griping and complaining is finished, the empty hole that leaving Vernon High has left, makes one always want to go back. But this is not possible, nor will it ever be. The last pep rally and football game, Honor Society, and worries about what lays ahead, always are a part of the high school student. To an coming freshman, however, being a senior seems to be far in the future. To them, it is the first football game and pep rally, and an unexpected date with a senior. All of these things are part of the life in a high school. Without them a person would have a large void inside, and would never be complete.

When the 1972-1973 school year started, everything appeared to repeat itself. There were, of course, some new faces and some old ones missing, but something else was different. By football season it was beginning to take shape. The new feeling in the air was spirit. Not just school spirit, but community spirit. The halls were covered with signs cheering the Lions on to Victory. Adults visited the already crowded cafeteria for pep rallies. Bumper stickers saying "Back Berry's Bunch" and "You're in Lion Country" could be seen throughout the town. With Vernon being the football town it is, the spirit could be seen everywhere. Downtown windows and streets were painted. Signs hung over Wilbarger Street and on the courthouse. Real school and community spirit is high during football season in Vernon.

People. People are the most important elements in making anything work. Small people, large people, black or white — all are needed. The differences are what makes the interesting. Football players, farmers, businessmen, small children, and students each have a part in a community. The happy smile of a child as she learns to talk, the quiet pride of an FFA student winning his first blue ribbon, or the thrill of a mother as her son makes his first touchdown, or her daughter wins her first tennis match. People helping people. Besides, classes in school in which students help students, they help people by just being themselves. Even though they are not aware of it, somebody, somewhere, is looking to them as an example. Whether it is another student or even a young student, it is very important to them to do as their idol does. If he does good things his followers will also. People. People helping people. Everybody. Everywhere. Everytime. Always. Come Together.

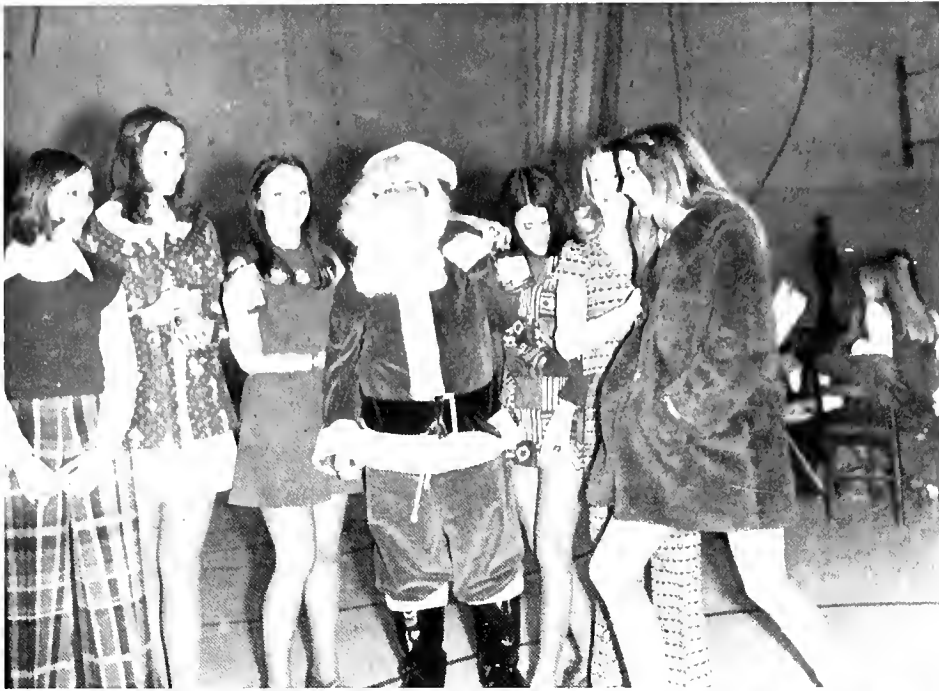

Activities

Who can be more active than over 750 teenagers who make up Vernon High School student body? In a wide range of interests students lent their whole beings to both curricular and extracurricular activities. Whether the action was in classroom or corridor, stadium or gymnasium, teen canteen or somebody's home it still was "Lion Country" action.

In a striving to attain personal and group goals, students came together in August to study and learn. They built new friendships and strengthened old ties while they rallied to sports, earned money for organizations, helped to improve their environment, and yet found time for age-old teen pastimes. Each separate but together, the student of 1973 found himself and his society more involved than ever before in history.

Town, School Come Together

Unity of townspeople and members of the Vernon High School System improves relationships between all. Pep rallies, art shows and even of selling advertisements for Journalism I help the students and teachers of V.H.S. to keep a good relationship with townspeople and believe it or not, parents. Cooperation, participation, and being involved brings the town, school and parents to "COME TOGETHER." School spirit brings people together in such cases as: summer football practice where girlfriends can be seen talking to football players, fathers, Booster Club meetings where students and townspeople go to support the Mighty Vernon Lions, and pep rallies where teachers, townspeople and students unite to show their spirit for the Lions.

Ann Ansel, Terri Howard and Cherri Robertson prepare to sell Journalism I ads second period much to Phyllis Kiesnick's dismay. Selling ads is one of the main duties for Journalism students.

Mmes. A. Q. Johnson, H. P. Hill, Irl Holt and Robert Wright seem very enthusiastic about the Stephenville pep rally.

Many townspeople flocked to Vernon High School to observe the work of Mr. Rod Howard's Art students. Many hours of work are put in on the exhibits which are highlights of all art classes.

Principal James Easley prepares to make a speech before the Rider football game.

Noan Sheridan and Luann Byrd display a sign advertising the "Red Stocking Follies."

Aviation Science class members Grady Kays, Betsy Wright, Jim Fluman, Rick Hardcastle and Alan Kincheloe, under the direction of Mr. Jack Hunter, listen while Harlan Screws explains the process of building an airplane in his garage.

Fan Fair Introduced

Fan-Fare highlights the 1973 Homecoming festivities. Many activities were staged during the week with the conclusion being the Lions victory over the Graham Steers. A tremendous bonfire ignited the spirit of the townspeople, students, and the Fighting Lions. Student Council members sponsored the traditional mum sales and also helped decorate for the Homecoming Coronation. A Horizon Club group, under the direction of Reva Hardin along with interested parents and students, painted store windows, streets and made banners and signs for the downtown area. The advance Social Problems Class, under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Le Bus, conceived and directed the Homecoming Fan-Fair which took the place of the traditional parade with class floats and the Vernon High School Marching Band. Concluding the Homecoming week, a chili supper open to anyone was held in the High School Cafetorium. After the Chili supper came the long-awaited football game. All in all, the 1973 Homecoming week was highlighted with various activities enjoyed not only by the V.H.S. students but also by the townspeople.

Vivacious head cheerleader Jenny Luedtke and her handsome escort Eddie Pruitt prepare for the coronation of the 1972 Homecoming Queen. Out of seven nominees selected by the entire student body, Jenny was elected Homecoming Queen by popular vote and was presented with roses and a kiss.

Participating in the Homecoming Fan-Fair, V.H.S. cheerleaders perform a routine to a popular song "Free" played by the band.

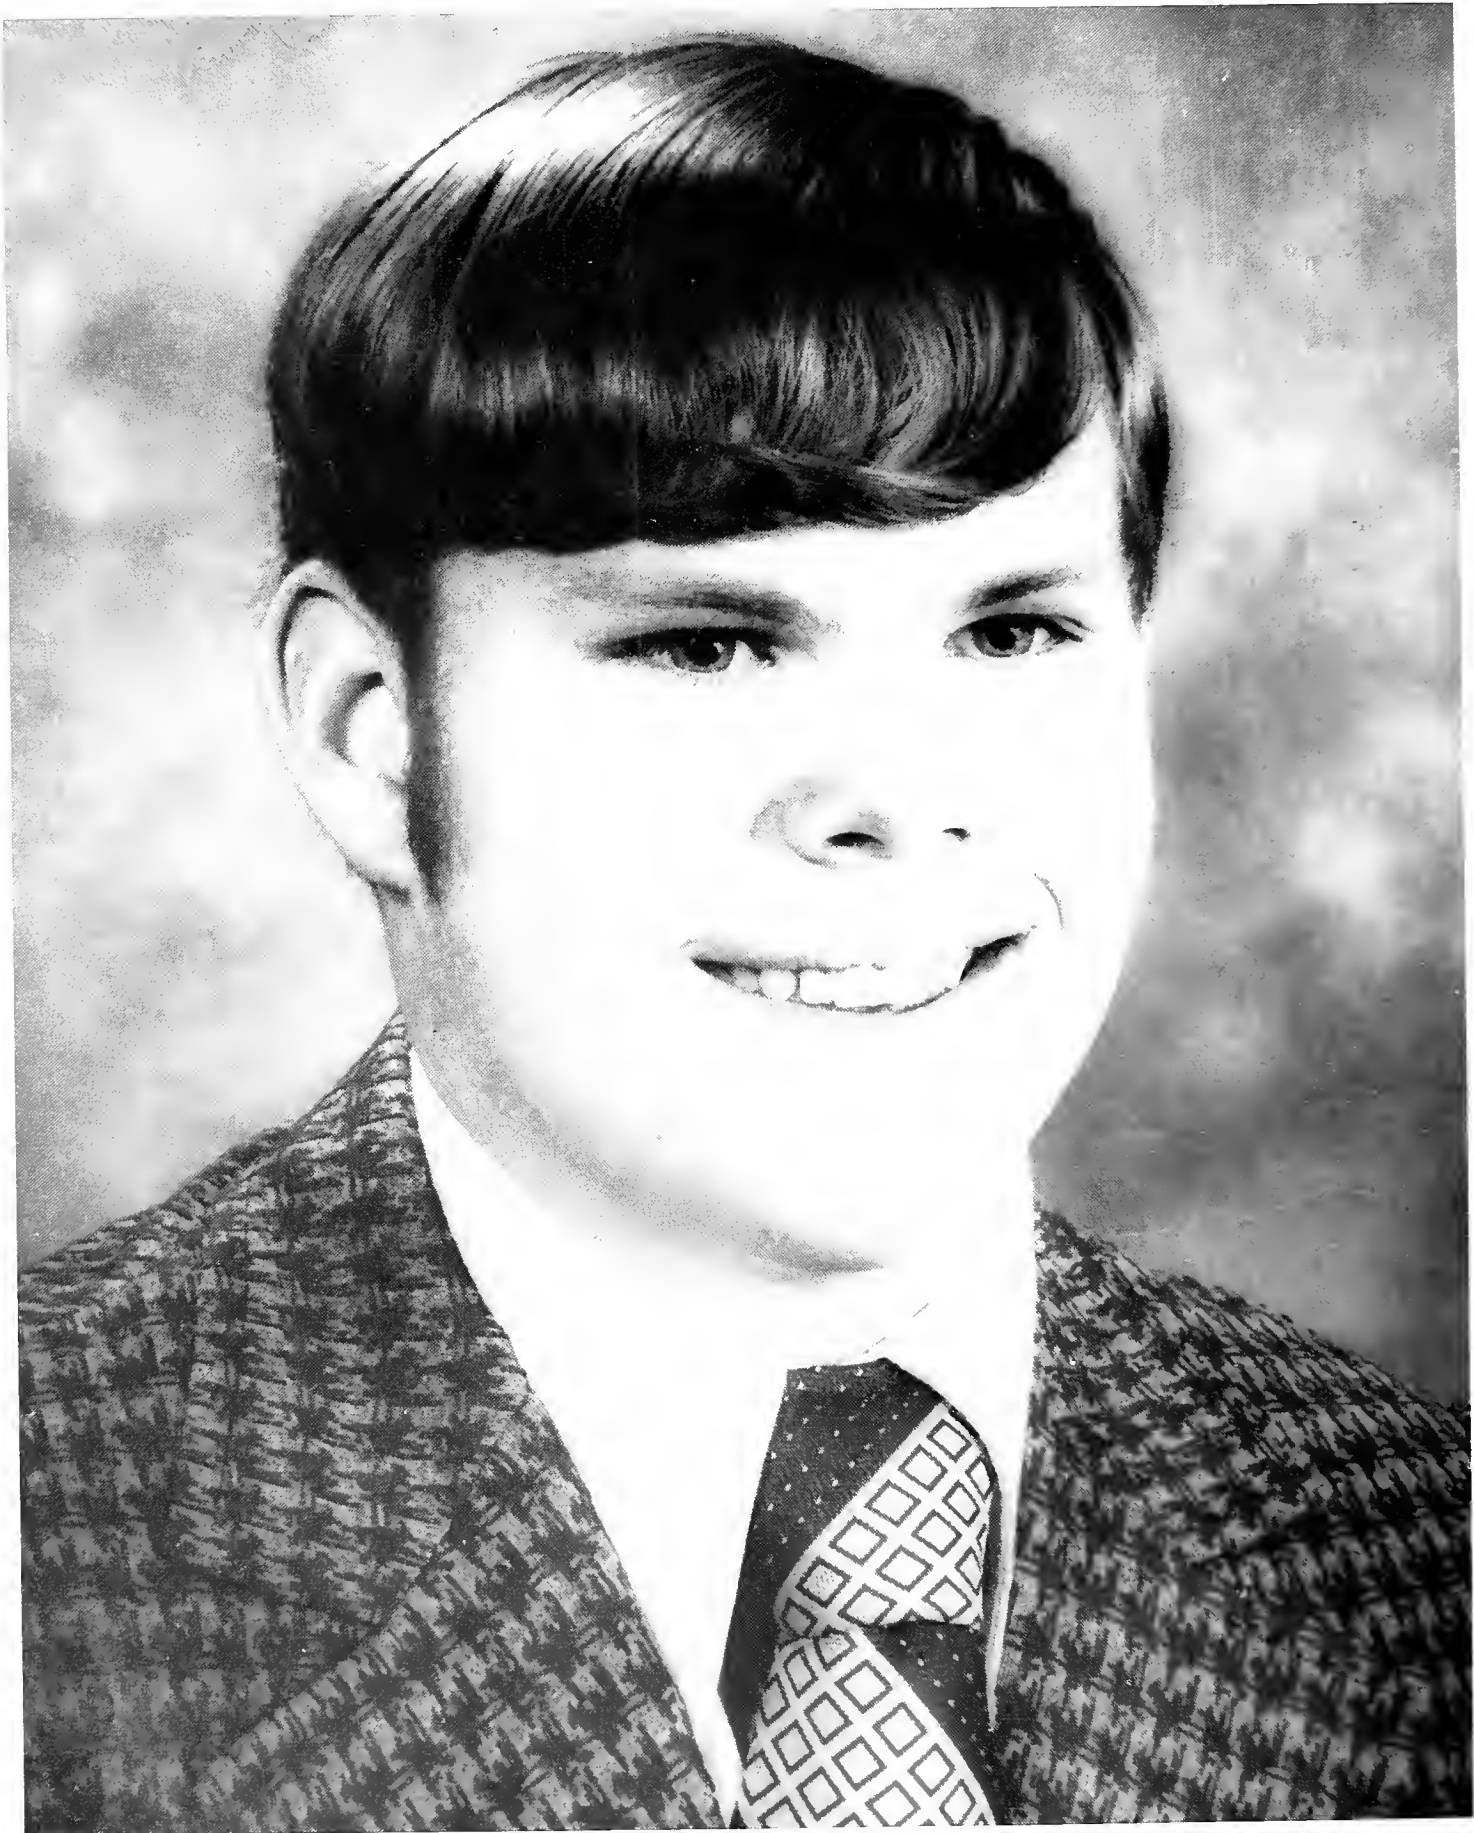

Leading the crowd in the 'Alma Mater' and 'Fight Song' are the three V.H.S. choirs, directed by Al Carnine, who is assisted by his daughter, Michelle.

High-kicking drill team members perform for the Homecoming Court, the football team, and the large crowd at the Football-Fan-Fair. In the background is the V.H.S. band, who also entertained the crowds with many songs, including the Alma Mater and Fight Song.

Becky Reynolds and John Brown Hardin III

Becky Reynolds, 1973 Valentines Queen was elected by popular vote by the V.H.S. student body. She was crowned in a special assembly at which the Drama Department presented three one-act-plays by James Thurber. Becky Reynolds, escorted by John Brown Hardin III, was attended by six other girls. The six attendants and their escorts were Pam Dunson and Dan Meads, Carolyn Grimes and Randy Littlefield, Judy Shelnett and Greg Jones, Glenda Hawkins and Grady Kays, Jenny Luedtke and Eddie Pruitt, and Elaine McGann and Kyle Westmoreland. Susan Belew also provided entertainment by singing a popular song "If." The Valentine assembly is sponsored by the National Honor Society and the Vice-President of the N.H.S., Terry Hunt Tooley, served as Master of Ceremonies. Mrs. Barbara Hughes's daughter, Melissa, acted as flower and crown bearer. The Valentines assembly is one that is always looked forward to by students and teachers.

Ricky Morgan and Darrell Bohannon
All-District Basketball

Pride in sportsmanship and ability is the main characteristic found in the athletes of Vernon High School. In the great tradition of Vernon High School's basketball history, there have been many strong scorers and excellent guards. Through the years, this tradition has not been weakened or merely equalled; it has been surpassed time and time again by the every-stronger and more ambitious basketball players. This past year has been no exception to our fine tradition. Two of the most outstanding basketball players found recognition this year. Senior Ricky Morgan, Honorable Mention, and Darrell Bohannon, All-District team. On the girls basketball team recognized for All-District honors are Lorraine Waggoner, Carolyn Weaver, and Twyla Cato.

Students Work Toward Honors

Mrs. Sandra Lebus, teacher of history, advanced social problems, and drama, directs University Interscholastic League one-act play contestants. League winners at state level are eligible for scholarships and awards.

Students this year won honors and awards both inside and outside the classroom. In areas ranging from acting to academics, Vernon High showed it had something going: students made fine showings at state and national levels alike.

Janice Byrd, senior and co-editor of the 'Yampanika' became the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Senior Terry Hunt Tooley, 'Roar' editor is a Merit Finalist and last year won state ready writing.

Science Is Challenge

Vernon High School Students are required to take two years of Science. Physical Science taken mostly by Freshmen, is a basic course useful in more advanced study of laboratory Science. Mr. Jack Hunter and Coach Ronnie Stout teach physical science. Mr. John Selman, Mr. Bob Wall and Coach Carl Miller are Biology instructors. Biology students enjoy varied activities such as dissecting frogs and worms. Chemistry, under the direction of Mrs. Dortha Schindler, is another Science course offered at V.H.S. Typing is a course which is useful for high school as well as college and for future jobs. Mrs. Faye Clark and Mrs. Kathryn Shivers teach Typing I and Typing II. Typing II is a course in typing useful to future secretaries. If a student is exceptional at the typewriter, he or she may be eligible for Interscholastic League contests.

What is so funny about this experiment yells Mr. Jack Hunter to two of his Physical Science class students Scott Smith and Steven Lewis. Have fun while you can Freshman, it gets a little rougher!

"Look at those mistakes!", says Vickie Richie.

Shelly Baker is wondering if this is really worth it!!!

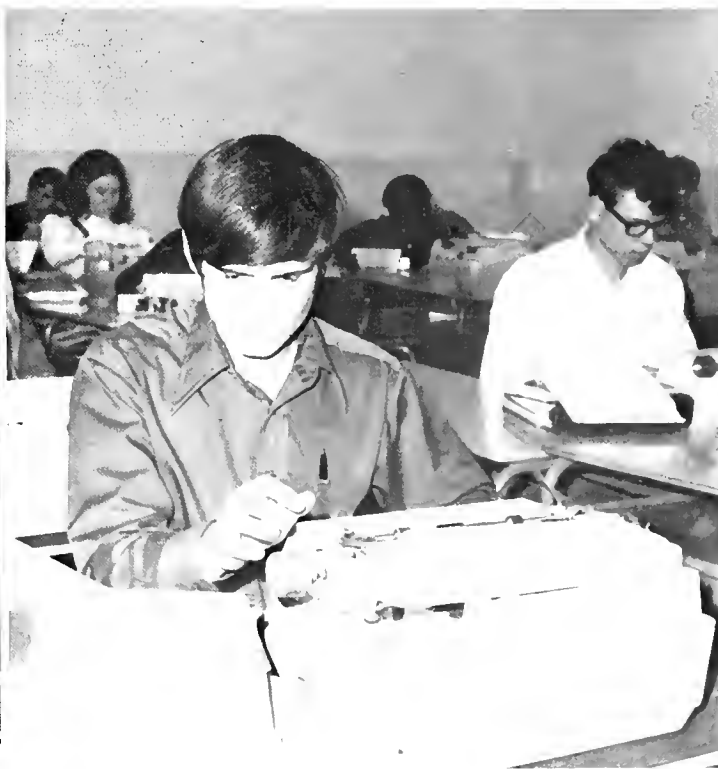

Is it Jeannie coming out of her bottle? Or is it Mr. Hunter coming out of his bunsen burner? Or BOTH!

Billy Goins, a freshman in Mr. Hunter's Physical Science class, is concentrating heavily on bending a piece of glass over a bunsen burner. Boy, these goggles really get hot after a while!

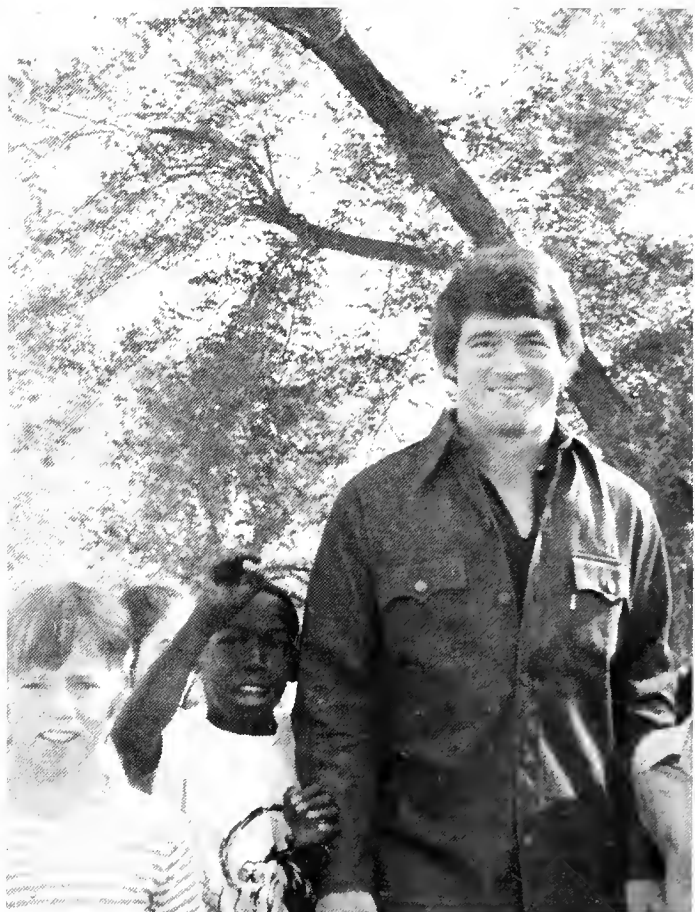

Humm . . . I wonder if this is the way you do this!!! say Darrell Bohannon.

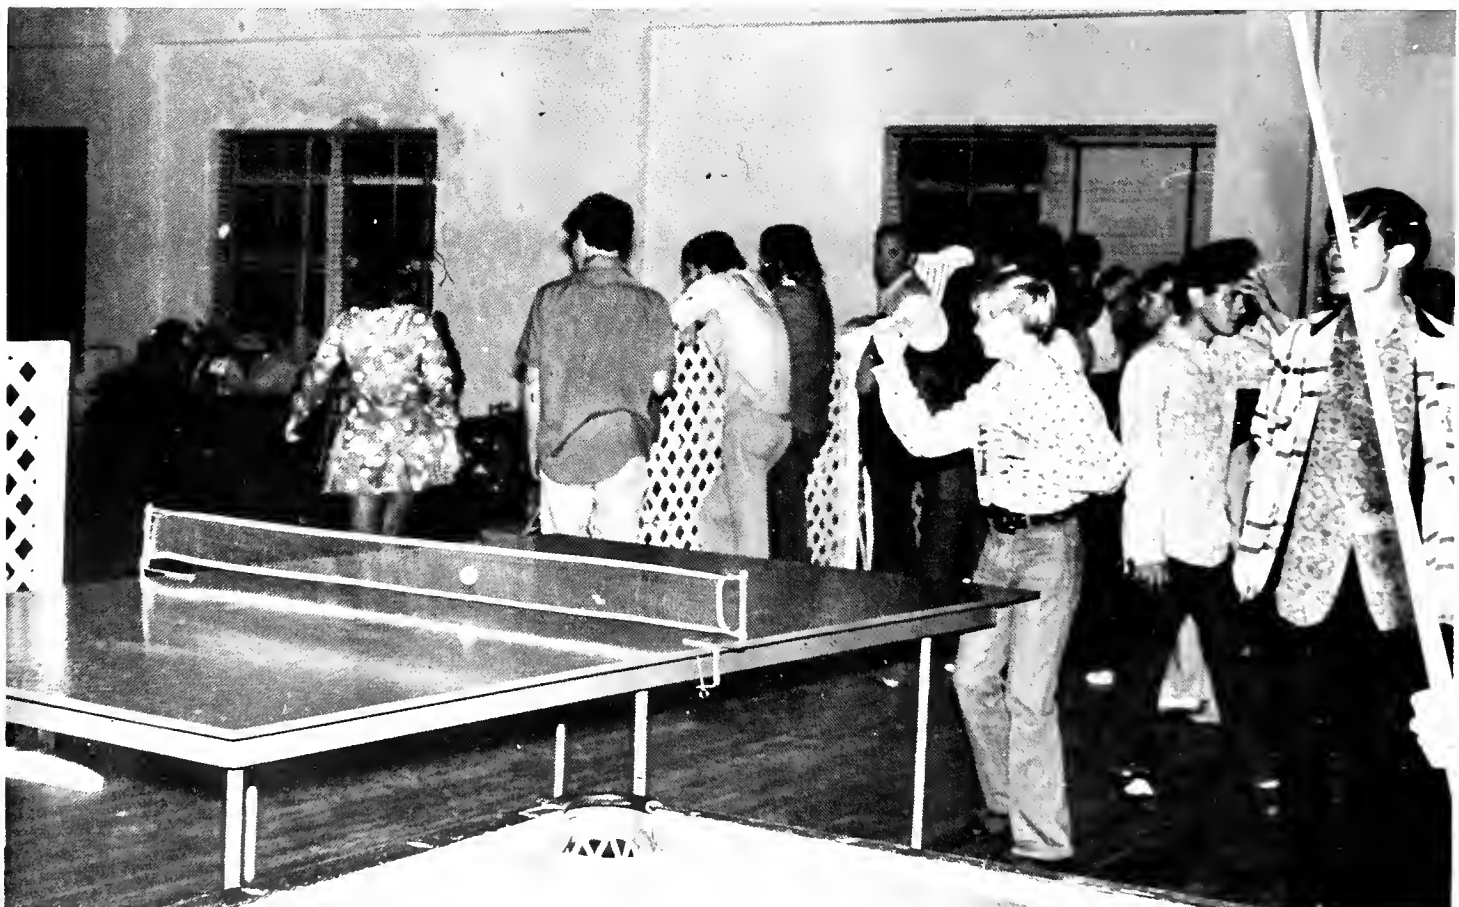

Junior student Walter Krieg is baffled by a typing Problem.

The late Melinda Rumage and Jenny Luedtke clown around before they begin their long twenty mile walk for the March of Dimes Walkathon.

Dan Reeves is surrounded by grade school students following the March of Dimes Walkathon. Many V.H.S. students took part.

V.H.S. students enjoy varied activities at the Lions Den, which include dancing, ping-pong and pool. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors take turns sponsoring the Lions Den, which is open weekly during football season and for the special occasions at V.H.S. such as Yamparika Day in May.

Mr. Stan Ripley and Mr. Bob Wall, teachers in the science department at V.H.S., and Biology students watch Dr. C. T. Haywood perform liquid nitrogen experiments. Dr. Haywood, from Midwestern, is a Physics professor. The subject of the lecture was "cryogenics," the science of low temperatures.

Senior students Terry Wilkerson, John Hardin, Ed Russell, Dan Meads, Rickey Townson pretend to be reading a chapter in World History when the class was forced to move outside because of a failure of the cooling system.

Learning Takes Foremost Role

Where the action is — that's the story of what's happening in the classroom, whether it's seeing experiments performed by a guest lecturer in the science department or taking to the cooler courtyard when the cooling system goes out.

From the sciences through the arts through the vocational subjects through the languages something is happening — learning through pupil-teacher participation in an active way.

Where the action is — the give and take of education at this school lives with the times and breathes with the spirit of youth and the wind-swept land of Vernon.

Drama Students Present Play

Working in partnership with the local chapter of the American Association of University Women, members of the drama class under the direction of instructors Mrs. Barbara Hughes and Mrs. Sandra Lebus, presented before the Thanksgiving holidays "Twelve Dancing Princesses."

The traditional children's play, presented in Wilbarger Auditorium for all youngsters of the Greenbelt area, this year saw a filled house for both afternoon and evening performances.

Complete with a demon prince, an off-beat princess in tennis shoes and jewel bedecked princesses, the play brought 'ohs' and 'ahs' and sighs and shrieks from school-age and pre-school children.

The Demon Prince, alias Greg Easley, burns up the piano with a hot selection during dress rehearsal for the children's play, Twelve Dancing Princesses performed by members of Drama Class.

Six of the Twelve Dancing Princesses, Robin Hite, Teena Shannon, Deena Shannon, Pam Dunson, Dawn Fisher, and Glenda Hawkins practice one of the dances performed in the Children's play. The play was a success due to the casts' many hours of practice and the expert direction by the directors.

Tim Thomas portraying the brave and handsome Brand X stands with the scatter-brained Fairy Godmother, alias Jenny Luedtke in the children's play, "Twelve Dancing Princesses."

Library Offers Varied Activity

The Vernon High School Library assistants are helpful to not only the students but the faculty. Student librarians have many varied tasks including shelving books, assisting students, checking out audio-visual machines and filing past issues of magazines in their proper places in the periodical room. The educational equipment is provided and handled by the library. Mrs. Mildred Wall's library assistants are Tommy Baldwin, Monty Brown, Sue Brooks, Mary Jane Brantley, Nancy Quillen, Carolyn Weaver, Harry Weaver, Josephine Lemon, Jenny Luedtke, Rhonda Simmons, Molly Byrd, Susan McNairy, Debbie Hicks, Nancy Brown, Kym Boynton, Patsy Dunn, Frances Hanna, John Hardin, Janice Bodling, Renee Jones, Beverly Key, and Kathy Garrett.

Freshman Lafayette Willis is caught in the act of checking out a novel for Freshman English class. Ramona Blalock, library helper, prepares to do her job of stamping the date on the book.

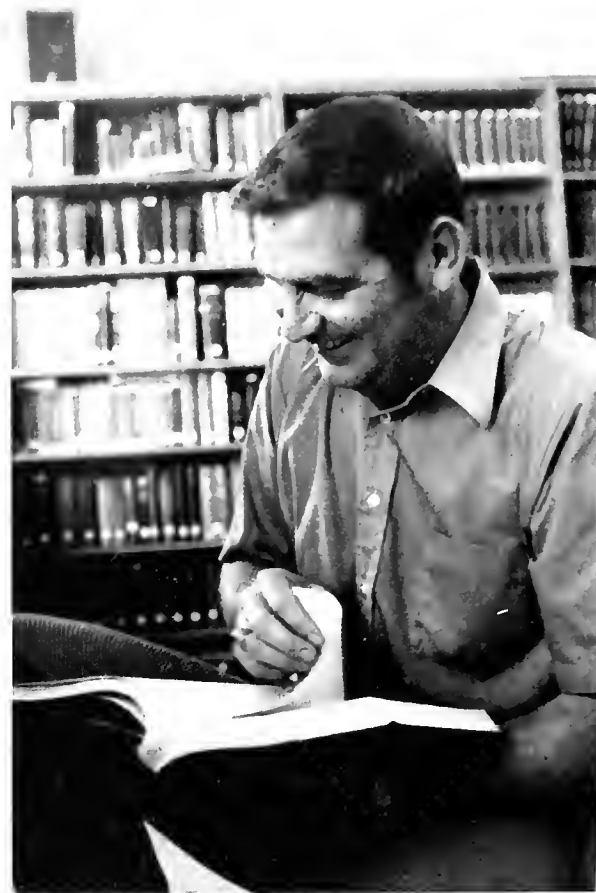

Tra Cardwell and Kim Arnold, library assistants, choose tapes for music to study by.

Working hard and diligently at the typewriter, freshman Tommy Baldwin types a booklist for Mrs. Mildred Wall, the librarian. Library assistants make the library an easier place to find what is needed.

Mrs. Mildred Wall librarian, helps Jack Brierton and Paul Cartusciello look up a article in the readers guide to periodical literature. Mrs. Wall is helpful to all students in the library.

Mr. Corky Cox, American History teacher, searches for an assignment.

Overwhelmed by work, junior student Mark Gauldin takes a time out to think it over.

Junior student Lisa Jones, is surprised at what she can learn from books in the library. Pam Parmer and Susan Belew look on and agree that with proper usage, the library can be helpful.

Skills Taught in Electives

Students enjoy the many elective courses that they may take besides the required English, Math, Science, and History Classes. Foreign languages offered at V.H.S. include Latin, Spanish and French. Art, Typing, Choir, and Aviation Science are also among some popular electives. Advanced Social Problems Class, a current events course, is open to Senior students only. Journalism I and II are courses which can be taken by those who wish to be on the 'Roar' and 'Yamparika' staffs. These elective courses can be very useful in applying the skills of everyday life faced by each student at Vernon High School.

Relaxing in the coed teachers lounge, Mrs. Alta B. Miller asks Mrs. Clea Holt the circumference of a 50 lb. torilla. Mrs. Holt replies, "What do you think I am? A math teacher."

Vernon High School art teacher, Rod Howard prepares an example for one of his classes to observe. Mr. Howard is in his second successful and illustrious year of teaching at Vernon High School.

Vernon High School sophomores, Georgianna Copeland and Alan Sharp are caught by the photographer while relaxing

Patsy Dunn, Ray Syrus, and Michael Martini find little time to pause for relaxation in one of Mrs. Jasmine Pace's busy English class. Some of duties are passing out graded papers.

Johnny Murray works in science lab.

Vernon High School sophomores, Georgianna Copeland and Alan Sharp are caught by the photographer while relaxing between classes on the planter box, and indulging in a private conversation.

Vernon students Cindy Fincher, Cheryl Rogers, and Mary Ann Tobar are caught in one of their more studious moments, in what they have found to be a very useful class. Home and Family Living.

A cold, snowy day, youngsters prepare to load the bus to be transported to another school. Because of snow, Vernon High School was closed for several days of icy roads. Buses were unable to travel the rural roads in which most of the consolidated students live.

Senior Suzy Williams takes time from her hectic schedule to stop and pose for the photographer. Susie is a member of the Yamper-ika staff and also the Health Careers Club.

A rather bored Janice Byrd tries to think of something to write for her English paper while also snacking on some yummy reese cups.

Day by Day

Vernon High School student activities are often of a wide range which keeps the vim and vigor channeled into constructive lines. Many hours are spent each day by both students and teachers in the painstaking labor of the different activities offered to Vernon High School Students. Students seem to be involved in activities from the use of intellectual facilities to the endorsement of brute force, which added together are the things that make the world go round.

A tired Kym Boynton takes a rest during Journalism II after a deadline was finished. Kym is the sports editor and is in charge of getting pictures for sports activities.

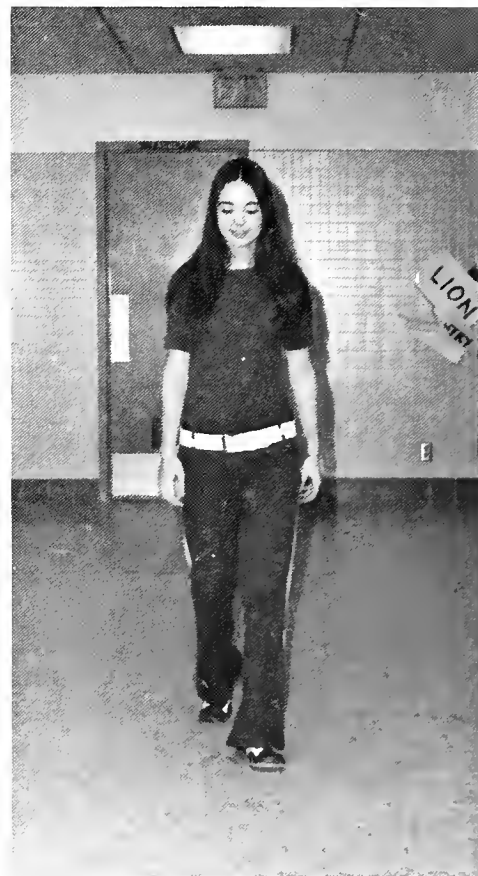

Elsie Moore, Lavonna Beazely, Diane White and Becerly Key belt out a song as Mr. Al Carnine directs them. These four girls are members of the Girl's Choir. This choir performed, along with the other three choirs, for the public during the Christmas holidays.

School Is Both Work and Fun

"Feel it, but don't try it," challenges Calamity Jane (Gail Wright) during a practice for the senior play. Her fellow thespians are Randy Littlefield and Becky Reynolds.

High school senior Deena Shannon contemplates the future and her feet as she walks the halls of V.H.S.

Cindy Schur and Alan Thames practice duet acting for University Interscholastic League contest. Duet acts are short plays performed by two actors.

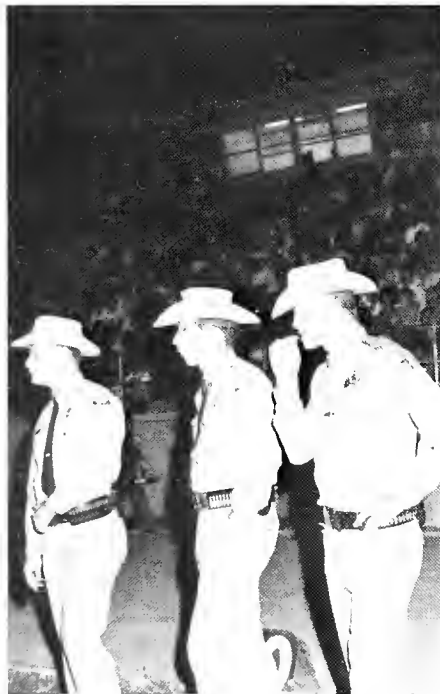

Students Veronica Pope, Cheryl McDuff, and Dawn McGee hurry to class.

Organiza- tions

Organizations are one of the best ways for the people of Vernon High School and the outside community to come together.

Organizations such as the Drill Team instill spirit in the fans at football and basketball games, as well as in the school itself. The cheerleaders are chiefly responsible for letting the team know that the people care.

Some people ask what good is that old Spanish or French club. These clubs give the students and teachers a chance to get to know and want to help each other.

TEP is a good example of the relationship that students have built up with the community. The fact that teachers ask for TEP students year after year speaks for itself.

Vocational Education classes play a vital part in the coming together of school and town. Seeing high school students day after day, a business man can't help but look with a more lenient eye on the youth.

All these things considered, Organizations seem to be the major link between the two societies of Vernon.

Kays Leads Christian Athletes

As a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, one shall endeavor to know more about Jesus Christ and His way of life, to be active in His church, to strive to be Christian in ones personal life and to share ones convictions with others. The typical huddle meeting is exactly what the name implies. Being able to share ones experiences with others is only one of the many aspects that makes being a FCA member so rewarding. As is stated in the purpose of the FCA; "To confront athletes and coaches, and through them the growth of our nation with the challenge and adventures of following Christ, participating in His church and serving Him through our vocations."

Coach Don Berry, sponsor of the fellowship of Christian Athletes, ponders over some paper work in his office in the fieldhouse. The Club also meets in the fieldhouse on Monday night.

Grady Kays, President of the FCA, is caught sneaking down the hall during class.

Junior football player Bill Moore receives his physical from Mrs. Donges before two-a-day practices. Coach Bobby Stevens records the results of Bill's blood pressure test.

Health Careers Gives Service

Health Careers Club member Taz Thomas seems to be surrounded by admiring Blue Angel members Terri Burnett, Lori Azbell, Cyndy Walker, Mary Hickey and Sherry Grantham.

The Health Careers Club, sponsored by Mrs. Bonnie Phillips, has proven to be a very interesting and educational program. The programs that are presented are about different careers in medicine and health care such as Physical Therapy, Laboratory Technician, Nursing and Cancer Research. The Health Careers Club is open to any high school student interested in any type of medical career. The club has no money-raising projects, and must depend upon dues paid by members. This is the fourth year of the Health Careers Club, and it is still going strong and gaining many new members.

Mrs. Bonnie Phillips, school Nurse and Health Careers Club sponsor, pauses to smile for the camera.

Health Careers Club officers for 1972-73 are Juanita Graham, secretary; Anita Zipperle, treasurer; Janice Byrd, vice-president; and Jola Gauldin, president. They are in charge of the program each month.

Student Council Leads Students

Senior Student Council representatives are Terry Hunt Tooley, Juanita Graham, Robert Kincheloe, Paula Hubbard, Donnie James, Jenny Luedtke, and Randy Yeager. A representative and alternate are chosen from each second period class to represent that class on the Student Council.

Officers for the Student Council are Larry Foerster, Melissa Cooke, Micheal Graf, Gail Wright, and Duane Robinson.

Mark Morgan, a junior representative, pauses on his way to a meeting.

Mrs. Barbara Hughes is shown directing the preparations for the Homecoming Assembly.

Senior representative Jenny Luedtke pays close attention to business during a meeting.

Student Council Treasurer Gail Wright clowns in the office before a meeting.

Chaplain Duane Robinson listens to the speaker during a pep rally. John Hardin and Eddie Pruitt also seem interested in the program. Council members are also involved in outside activities.

Trying to lessen the communication gap and acting as a go-between for student body with the faculty, the Student Council learned to organize and follow as well as lead.

The student government organization advised by Mrs. Barbara Hughes supervises all school elections and arranges special assembly programs and sponsors a sale of homecoming mums for a money-raising project.

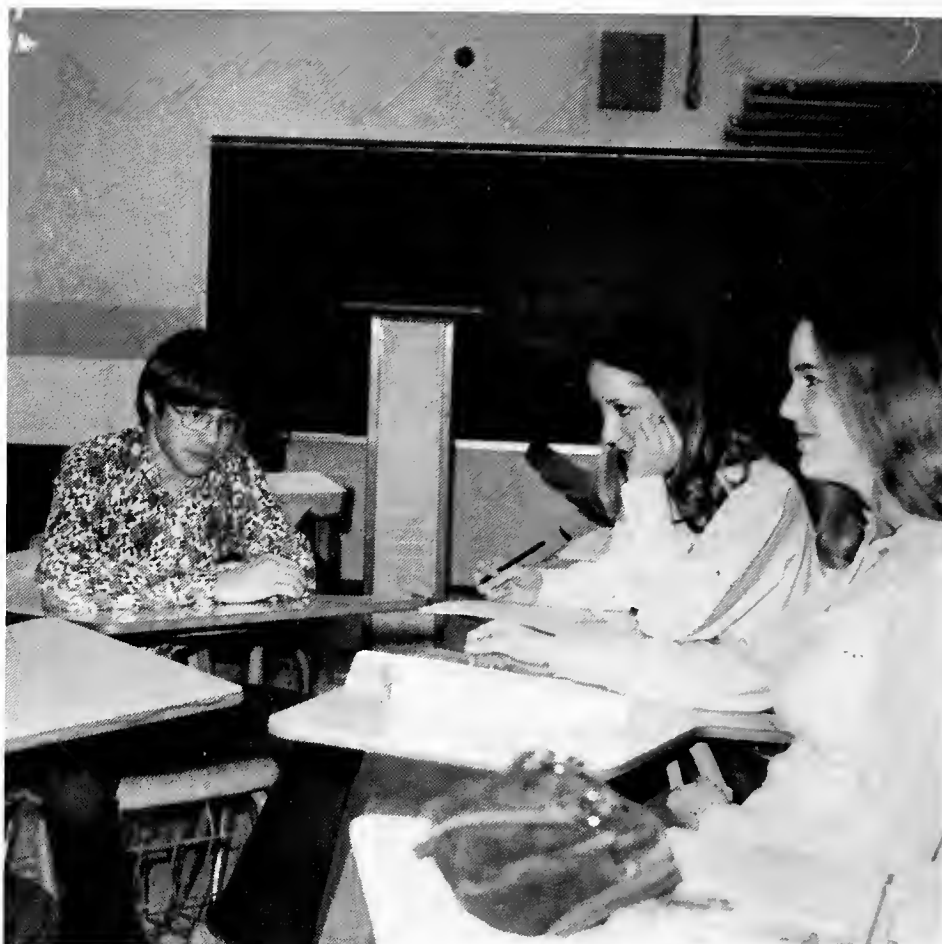

Truly representative, the council is composed of an elected representative and alternate from each homeroom unit plus council officers.

French Club

Glen Hawkins, a junior at Vernon High School, is on his way to a French Club Meeting.

Mrs. Kathy Brownlow, sponsor for the French Club, leads the club in carrying forth its motto of "Liberte', Equalite', Fraternite'," which means Liberty, Equality, and Fraternity. The club is open to any high school student who is taking or has taken French. During the meetings the club discusses the upcoming plans such as parties, picnics, and conventions. Refreshments are provided by the refreshment committee. The club has approximately thirty members, from all four grades.

French club members, Mark Prehn, Terri Holter, and Linda Myers participate in the planning of the spring banquet that the French Club holds annually.

Cindy Fincher and Ogie the Froggie hold a casual French conversation to the amazement of the photographer.

Junior Engineers Organize

Max Gaebler, Larry Hall, and Bill Moore play with the laser, one of the complicated machines used in Physics. The use of the laser is only one of the skills that Jets members acquire.

Officers for the JETS Club are Andy Duffie, President; Deana Wright, Secretary; Carl Freeling, Vice-President; and Steve Nosser, Treasurer. The officers were elected by the other members.

Junior Engineers Technical Society with a chapter organized at VHS for the first time this year is a special interest organization for future engineers.

With Mr. Stanley Ripley, Drafting and Physics instructor, acting as faculty sponsor, the JETS call upon Mr. Martin Raabe and Mr. Buddy Rivers, engineers, as professional advisors.

Meeting each second Monday, JETS see films, hear engineers, and plan special projects. This year the young engineers became environmental engineers as they collected aluminum beer cans and returnable soft drink bottles as a money raising project.

Senior members journeyed to Texas A & M University to take tests in math, slide rule, chemistry and biology.

Mr. Stanley Ripley, Drafting and Physics instructor, is also sponsor of the JETS.

Latin Club Studies Language

The Latin Club is not like any other club in VHS because the language they study is no longer spoken. With all the conjugations and declensions, the students sometimes feel like giving up but they only worked harder. The things they learn also help them in other subjects like English and science, besides being fun.

Miss Dorthea Schindler, Latin and Chemistry teacher for Vernon High School, is the sponsor for the Latin Club. She teaches both Latin I and II.

Kent Lambert and Betsy Wright diligently study their Latin during second period. They are both second year students and members of the Latin club. Only second year students are allowed in the club.

Officers for the 1972-73 Latin Club are Kathy Judd, Vice-President; Mary Ann Kubicek, President; Greg Thomas, Secretary; and Harry Thompson, Treasurer. Not pictured is Betsy Wright, Parliamentarian. This group plans the activities for the Club, and establishes its rules and by laws.

HECE Trains Vernon Students

and art, Gayle also helps with playground duty.

HECE student Renee Van Loh looks up from her job at Olga's Flower Shop to smile for the camera. Selling flowers is only one job that these students can do.

Mrs. Vara Boyd is sponsor of the HECE program.

The opportunities are unlimited in the Home Economics Cooperative Education program. A student can cook in a restaurant, arrange flowers with a florist, or work at a school. A student can do something that he or she will enjoy. Anyone who wants to work should consider HECE.

DECA Comes Together With People

Mr. Bill Speed, sponsor of the DECA, is always on hand as a go-between for students and employers.

Jimmy Frith, a senior DECA student, sacks groceries while Jim Fluman checks out a customer. Working in a supermarket can be a lot of work, but the money at the end of the week looks good.

DE Works, Plays

The Distributive Education Clubs of America, under the direction of Mr. Bill Speed, is designed to give students a chance to earn money and learn what it feels like to work.

These students work in places such as grocery and department stores. They work only in places where they come in contact with the public.

The DECA will find a job for any junior or senior student enrolled in the class, if they don't already have one. The employers do not have to pay the minimum wage, but most people pay this wage, or slightly lower.

This program adds to the maturing of the youth by giving them responsibilities to live up to, like those that they will encounter in life.

Senior DECA student Angie Miller takes out time from her job to attend the 4-H County Stock Show. Activities outside work are important to students too, and often take up all leisure time.

Pan American Forum Aids Others

The Pan American Club, sponsored by Mrs. Alta Miller is dedicated to promoting the Spanish language in Vernon High School.

This organization is made up of any student who has taken or is taking Spanish. The club meets in Mrs. Miller's home and see filmstrips and has refreshments.

The club has a helping side too. At Christmas time they furnish a turkey and other food to a needy Spanish-American family.

In the spring, the club begins to try to raise money to attend the Pan American Convention in San Antonio. The group sells some product to attend this convention, and only those who sell enough can go.

Displaying food for needy families are Beverly Layton, Alan Thames, Maria Haro, Jenny Niemeyer, Maria Garcia, and Pam Nichols. This food will go to a selected Spanish-American family.

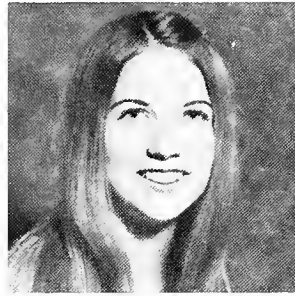

Standing before the Pan American seal is Mrs. Alta Miller, school Spanish Club sponsor.

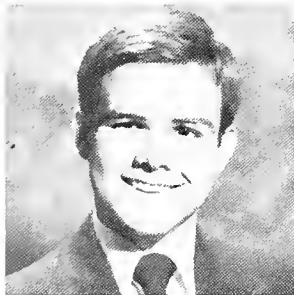

Cheryl Green and Buster Brandt wait in the Spanish room for the meeting to come to order. Jenny Niemeyer served the club as President for the year, and was responsible for calling the meeting.

Mrs. Pat Miller, Honor Society sponsor, looks questioning as she speaks to the Honor Society.

Santa Tooley Collects Donations

Santa Claus, alias Terry Hunt Tooley, practices his HO, Ho, Ho's. The Honor Society took up donations to buy food for a needy family.

Honor Society President Glenda Hawkins tries to decide just what the school Christmas tree needs, while Terry Hunt Tooley attempts to untangle the lights. The tree is an Honor Society project.

Senior Honor Society members Carolyn Grimes, Teena Shannon, and Becky Reynolds wait excitedly for customers at the District Track Meet. This is the one money raising project of the Society.

Honor Society Sponsor Mrs. Pat Miller assists in twining the tinsel around the tree.

'Yamparikans' Produce Yearbook;

A good yearbook is a combination of many things. A willing staff, a good theme, good photographers, an understanding advisor, and cooperation between all these. When things all come together, the yearbook is almost guaranteed to be good. The only variable that exists is the student body. If the student body is really alive and cooperative, everything is fine. Sometimes this is the case, and sometimes not. If the students don't care, the staff doesn't care. This year is a great year, and the staff and students are both working to make a better and more exciting yearbook.

To some people, the yearbook is just an excuse to get out of class, or an easy credit. The Yamparika is really a coming together of eleven minds to form a single product.

'Yamparika' editors Janice Byrd and Carolyn Grimes discuss a deadline with yearbook advisor Mrs. Jasimine Pace. The job has many rewards and trials, but the finished book is worth all effort and hard work. As shown in the picture, yearbook editors are heard, but not seen.

Nancy Brown, Yamparika bookkeeper is trying to find out what someone's problem is.

Susie Williams, Yamparika photographer, and Deena Shannon, Class Editor, admire the quality of the pictures selected for the yearbook. There are always pictures to be looked at and examined.

Byrd and Grimes Act as Editors

Gail Wright, activities editor, looks up from her hectic work to ask someone a question.

Typist Judy Shelnutt can't seem to decide what to do during the last day of deadline. Typing yearbook pages isn't very much fun.

Class Editor Cheryl Greene finds time to rest and decide what the class section needs.

Being the one boy on the annual certainly has its drawbacks, as Grady Kays will be the first to admit. His expression of "what can you do," shows what happen when you're out numbered ten to one.

Sports editor Kym Boynton finds time for a smile in spite of the nearness of a deadline.

'Roar' Is Project of Journalism I

This 'Roar' staff is composed of Journalism I students. Selling ads and sneaking around in the Yam-parika room are among the many things this group is fond of. Their other duties range from reporting and writing stories to anything that Editor Terry Hunt Tooley orders.

Only juniors and seniors are permitted to take Journalism I, which is a must for making the yearbook staff.

Getting the 'Roar' out in time is the greatest concern of this class. Often the reporter is forced to find his own news, for Vernon High often has moments when everything is quiet.

The temptations of the open yearbook room often prove too much for first year students, and they are often caught by an irate Journalism II student. Apologies are often in order and are usually made and sometimes accepted.

First year students Jane Hendrick and Cheryl Rogers look up from their duties as reporters for the 'Roar.' This is often a trying job.

Hard-working Roar staffers Connie Osborne and Cindy Fincher pause in their duties as ad makers and typists to smile for the camera.

Tim Thomas asks Mrs. Pace about a problem that has come up in the advertising department.

'Roar' Editor Terry Hunt Tooley and Business Manager Benji Wagner consult Advisor Mrs. Tom Pace about the layout for ads in the 'Roar.' These three must work closely to produce the best newspaper.

Young Mechanics Acquire Skills

Auto Mechanics I students Alvin Turkett and Jefferson Crockett display some of their mechanical talent in using one of the complicated machines in the Auto Mechanics building. Auto Mechanics I meets in the afternoon at the Old Parker school under the direction of Mr. Alva Vaughn.

Auto Mechanics II students Joe Martinez and Mark Latimer pause to pose for the camera.

Caught just before leaving the building are Auto Mechanics II members Hugh King, Steven Weaver, Micheal May, and Gary Land. These are four of the eight seniors in Auto Mechanics II.

Just finishing work on a car are senior students Amby Lawson and Billy Stowers.

Mr. Vaughn Trains New Mechanics

Mr. Alva Vaughn, Auto Mechanics Instructor, displays the parts of a motor to his class.

First year students Jeff Chislom, Ricky Baldwin, and Lyle Bowen look over the motor of a problem car. The boys are allowed to decide what is wrong with a car, then try to fix the car.

Larry MacArthur and Cecil Potter consult other members of the class to try to determine the faulty part of the motor. Auto Mechanics prepares the high school student for a career as a mechanic, or only as a sideline. This class will repair a car for only the cost of the parts, just for the experience.

FFA Kicks Off New Ag Program

Paula Brockman, Vernon High School senior, was chosen Vernon FFA Sweetheart.

Officers for the 1972-73 FFA are Joesph Hildebrand, President; Gerald Proctor, Vice-President; Mark Lehman, Secretary; Alfred Grey, Treasurer; J. C. Wheeler, Reporter; Brent Roberts, Sentinel. Mr. F. E. Todd, Mr. Max Tatum, and Mr. Gene Bristo are sponsors for the FFA chapter.

This new greenhouse was added to the Agriculture department of Vernon High School for the 1972-73 school year. The Horticulture class grows many kinds of plants here, including cucumbers, tomatoes, mums, and poinsettias.

Forensics Practice, Practice

Building self-confidence through public speaking, the Vernon Forensics are a group of speech students who enjoy competition. They practice long hard hours for perfection. All the work they put into their performance shows when they enter tournaments. This year the Forensics entered four tournaments — Rider, Burkburnett — Vernon, Top of Texas, and Herschi. During school in their speech class, the students use the video tape machine. This helps them see what they are doing wrong. The last and most important event for Forensics is the District Contest. This is where all the hard practice pays off.

Members of the Speech I class under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Boynton, often use the video tape machine to view their acting ability. This machine is valuable in improving student's acting.

Greg Easley and Kym Boynton, advanced students look over their material.

The debate team members Lselie Robertson, Pam Nichols and Randy Biesner go over the case file cards and pull the cards they need to present their case.

Vernon Speakers Win Sweepstakes

Mrs. Dorothy Boynton, Vernon High speech teacher, is in charge of the Forensic organization.

Cathy Rozzell and Janet Shultz hold the debate trophy they won at the Top of Texas Speech Tournament at Midwestern University. Both are first year speech students.

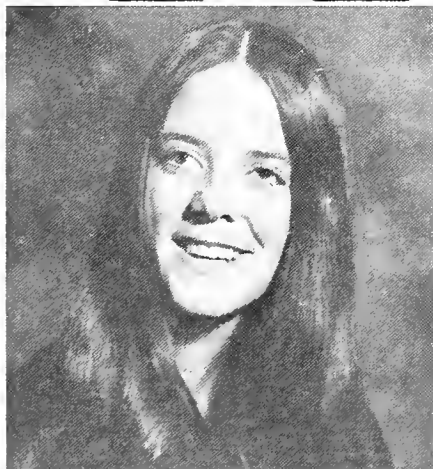

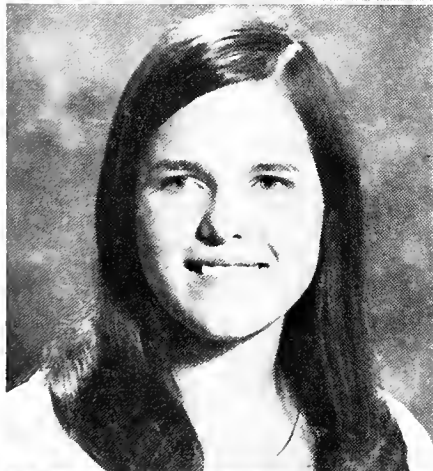

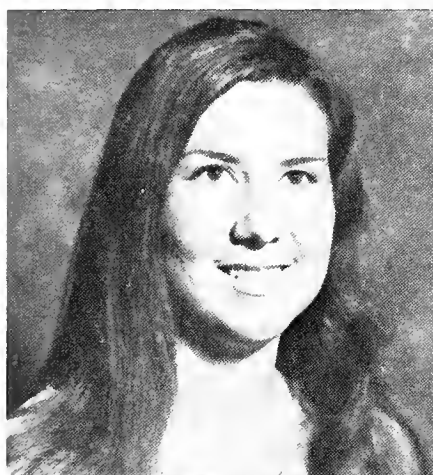

Winners of the sweepstakes trophy include Linda Myers, Beverly Layton, Lee Ann Adams, Kathy May, Eddie Eggleston, Steve Cooner, Taz Thomas, Vickie Richie, Tim Thomas, Mark Roberson, Alan Thames, Gary Doherty, Nancy Beam, Georgana Copeland,

Variety Highlights FHA Activities

Members of the 1972-73 FHA have kept busy this past year with projects designed to help their school and their community. They have an installation banquet for the officers, the crowning of the FHA sweetheart and beau, and a trip to the State Fair.

Nominees for the 1972-73 FHA Sweetheart are Jola Gauldin, Camille Wilson, and Karen Naylor.

Officers of the Future Homemakers of America are Vicki Doherty, Nancy Hadley, Camille Wilson, Mary Ann Tobar, Karen Naylor, and Mary Ann Kubicek.

Sponsors for the FHA are Mrs. Nadine Martin and Mrs. Inez McCaulye. They are seen here looking for new projects for the FHA. Any student who has taken Homemaking is eligible to belong.

VOE Program Gives Experience

Vocational Office Education, or VOE, headed by Mrs. Ruth Sheer, is a school work program that enables the student to go to school and also go to work. These students are placed in offices in Vernon, and work at such things as bookkeeping, typing, filing and answering the phone. This, as well as other work programs, enables the school, and the school and the community to come together in a common area. The business world gets a glimpse of the students in a different environment, and the students get a similar opportunity to see the working world from the inside. The students receive practical work experience, and the employers get a hard-working, energetic, and ready to learn employee. Most employers who participate in this program hire students year after year, and are usually well pleased with the good work and pleasant dispositions of the students.

Paula Hubbard, a senior Vocational Office Education student, is pictured here working hard at her job. Students are placed in various businesses in town, and work for an hourly wage.

Heading the VOE club this year are: Beth Bingham, Vice-President, Jeanne Brooks, Secretary, Kathy Wilhelm, President, Treva Clifton, Historian, and Micheal Graf, Treasurer. This group takes care of all the business of VOE, with Mrs. Ruth Sheer. They were elected by majority vote of the club.

ICT Teaches Many Good Skills

Mr. Jimmy Smith, ICT sponsor, poses rather grudgingly for the camera during ICT class.

Benton Sosolik, Janie Dickey, and Jimmy Upton relax in ICT class. The students are required to take the class in addition to working. The class gives the students hints about how to become better workers.

Leaving at lunch is only one of the pleasures of a work club. ICT puts a little extra responsibility on a students shoulders, but it is worth it in the long run. Going to school in the morning and working in the afternoons is often a good thing for a student. He can learn how to work at job and get paid for it too. The fast approaching future often catches up to the unprepared student, but students in ICT will always be ready.

Cindy Krieg, and ICT student, is shown among the many clothes at Hughes Cleaners. This program helps prepare students in Vocational skills besides giving them an opportunity to earn money.

Teacher Helpers Discover Children

TEP isn't all work, as Randy Littlefield soon discovers. The look of awe on first-grader David Williams' face is enough to make decorating a ten-foot Christmas tree really worthwhile.

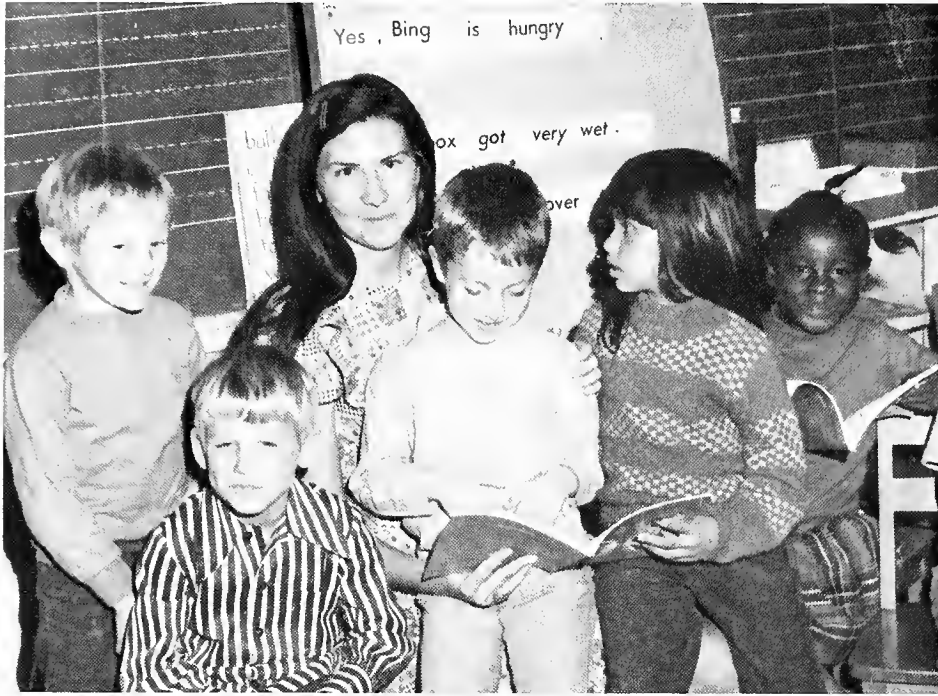

Susie Williams says, "Can you believe that?" Yes, because with kids, anything can happen.

Members of TEP are: Lissa Bowery, Deborah Lindsey, Maria Haro, Judy Ritchie, Debbie Browning, Janet Edwards, Cecelia Baker, Joia Gauldin, Juanita Graham, Treva Clifton, Charles Maddin, Nancy Brown, Rhonda Simmons, Greg Jones, Judy Shelnett, Duane Robin-

Teaching Experience Is Rewarding

Jola Gauldin, a senior TEP student, is shown surrounded by her first grade students. Learning to read can be one of the most frustrating things in their young lives, and an understanding soul is often very welcome. Jola teaches in Mrs. Sarah Crawford's room at Hawkins School.

Mrs. Clela Holt, TEP sponsor, is shown smiling at one of the Vernon pep rallies.

Kids Aid Kids

The combination of thirty-five elementary school children and one High School TEP student, forms a beautiful product.

The Teaching Experience Program is designed to give prospective teachers a taste of what it is like to have the responsibility of a roomful of children.

Activities of the TEP students include grading papers, reading to the children, supervising recess, and holding everyone on their lap.

The feeling of satisfaction felt by these students as a first-grader learns to kick a football, a second grader learns a new word, and the appreciative look on a teacher's face when the children's attention has been diverted to something creative is unequalled.

Senior Benji Wagner seems to be showing his midget football players the art of the game. This football playing at recess is one of the favorite activities of the elementary children and TEP students.

Choirsters Sing for Civic Groups

Members of the Vernon High Singers are: Ruby Arthur, Phillip Asby, Danny Barnard, Robert Barnes, Nancy Beam, Roger Beam, Sue Brooks, Robert Bunch, Wayne Byars, Ardine Copeland, Cheryl Crayton, Kim Daberkow, Jimmy Dennis, Susan Frith, Maria Garcia, Randy Gillespie, Tracy Graf, Chris Green, Ricky Hannah, Larry

Members of the Girls' Choir are: Josie Anderson, Lavonna Beazely, Leah Birnbaum, Ollie Mae Briggs, Terri Burnett, Luann Byrd, Sue Dunnam, Gloria Dunwood, Carolyn Fleeks, Cindy Garrison, Irene Garza, Nancy Hadley, Frances Hanna, Pam Hardin, Brenda Hopkins, Terri Howard, Donna Jolly, Donna Jones, Lisa Jones, Beverly

Key, Phyllis Kieschnick, Lydia King, Sarah Lehman, Elise Morre, Connie Osborne, Nancy Quillin, Alesia Reinisch, Jane Ritchie, Nancy Ring, Cherri Robertson, Carmen Tobar, Mary Ann Tobar, Rita Townson, Jewell Waggoner, Lorine Waggoner, Carolyn Weaver, Teresa Weddle, Diane White, and Sylvia Wright.

A Capella Performs at Assembly

Mr. Al Carnine, director of the Vernon choir, adjusts the microphone before a performance.

Chimster Lisa Payne, Soloist Susan Belew, and accompanist Donna Baldwin, pose with the A Capella mascot. They performed for many school functions and activities, besides outside singing.

Members of the A Capella Choir are: Cindy Tamplin, Curtis Bowery, Beckie Biesner, Wayne Reece, Debra Thompson, Joe Gordon, Twila Cato, Susan Belew, Howard Ford, Cheryl McDuff, Van Frater, Karen Neal, Curtis Sims, Lisa Payne, Greg Jones, Pam Collins, Kathy Judd, Tip Igou, Teena Shannon, Larry Evans, Cheryl Green,

Solo, Ensemble Class Now Offered

Lisa Jones seems to be slyly looking to see if anyone notices as she samples her candy.

Denison, Carmen Tobar, and Tim Thomas. This class features individually members, choir and in groups.

Fighting Lion Band Elects Officers

Officers for the Vernon High School Band for the 1972-73 school year are Brett Brewer, Mark Prehn, Juanita Graham, Mary Ann Slaughenhop, Gary Doherty, Jola Gauldin, Danny Fancher, Joseph Hildebrand, Ricky Arnold, Jamie Slaughenhop and Rex Adams.

Marching in step, the Band of the fighting Vernon Lions goes into the stadium to take their seats before the game. The Band performed during halftime with the Drill Team and also during the game. The Band practices every morning and two nights a week in preparation for each game.

Leading the band of Vernon High School are Mr. George Mitchell, band director, Ricky Arnold, Drum Major, and Danny Fancher, Assistant Drum Major. Each at some time directed the Band.

Mr. George Mitchell appears to be trying in vain to get the Band's attention during the Rider pep rally.

Juanita Graham looks on as Jane Baldwin introduces the twirlers from Stephenville. This was done at each Lions home game during the football season. The visiting twirlers performed also.

Requiring dedication and skill the Band recognizes the importance of every single member to form a unified and smoothly marching as well as sweetly playing whole.

Performing at every football game — in town and out, conference and non-conference — members of the band show only the results of the many hours of practice both in marching and playing. In addition to early morning rehearsals, Tuesday evenings again see formations worked out, techniques perfected, and music coordinated with Drill Team routines.

In addition to its part in loyalty support of the athletic programs, the Band proudly earns high ranking yearly in University Interscholastic League Marching and sight reading contests, and many individual members have taken high honors in solo and ensemble contests from area to state levels.

Twirlers Brighten All Performances;

Juanita Graham, senior student, head twirler, shows her school spirit at a pep rally.

During the spirited Burkburnett pep rally, the Twirlers perform a peppy routine to, "You've Said It All." This routine proved to be the favorite of the audiences at the game.

Brightening up the marching of the Vernon Lions Band are Charlotte Grantham, Vicki Boaldin, Head Majorette Juanita Graham, Paula Hathaway, Jane Baldwin, and Gaye Denison. These girls performed on the sidelines at halftime during every game.

Marching Lion Band Takes to Field

Band members include: Ricky Arnold, Brett Brewer, Paula Brockman, Danny Fancher, Max Gaebler, Jola Gauldin, Juanita Graham, Larry Hall, Joseph Hildebrand, Robert Rallis, Jamie Slaugenhop, Mary Slaugenhop, Billy Talbot, Freddy Wilson, Donna Baldwin, Jane Baldwin, Lanny Bass, Darla Burkett, O'Keefe Cairo, Charlie Durham, Tony Easterling, Mark Gauldin, Lisa Payne, Mark Prehn, Vickie Richie, Loye Ritchie, Tim Thomas, Renee Van Loh, Dana Wall, Darrell Woodard, Jon Allen, Vicki Boaldin, Billy Boatman, David Boyd, Dianne Brandt, Randy Carpenter, David Cowas, Robert Crockett, Gary Doherty, Sherry Grantham, Merlien Jampton, Tommy Haning

Lionettes Perform During Season;

From practice sessions early and late to bus trips home from out-of-town games in the wee hours of morning on rickety-rackety yellow school bus overflowing with good cheer and the debris of one continuous meal, drill team members exemplify the best of today's school girl.

Led by seven squad leaders chosen on basis of choreographing and executing original routines, members of the Lionettes try-out each week for performance in the new routines.

Versatile and demanding, the repertoire this year has varied from jazz to kick to pom-pom to chair routines performed to tunes ranging through "I've Got Rhythm," "I Want To Be Happy," "Begin the Beguine," and "Marching the Blues."

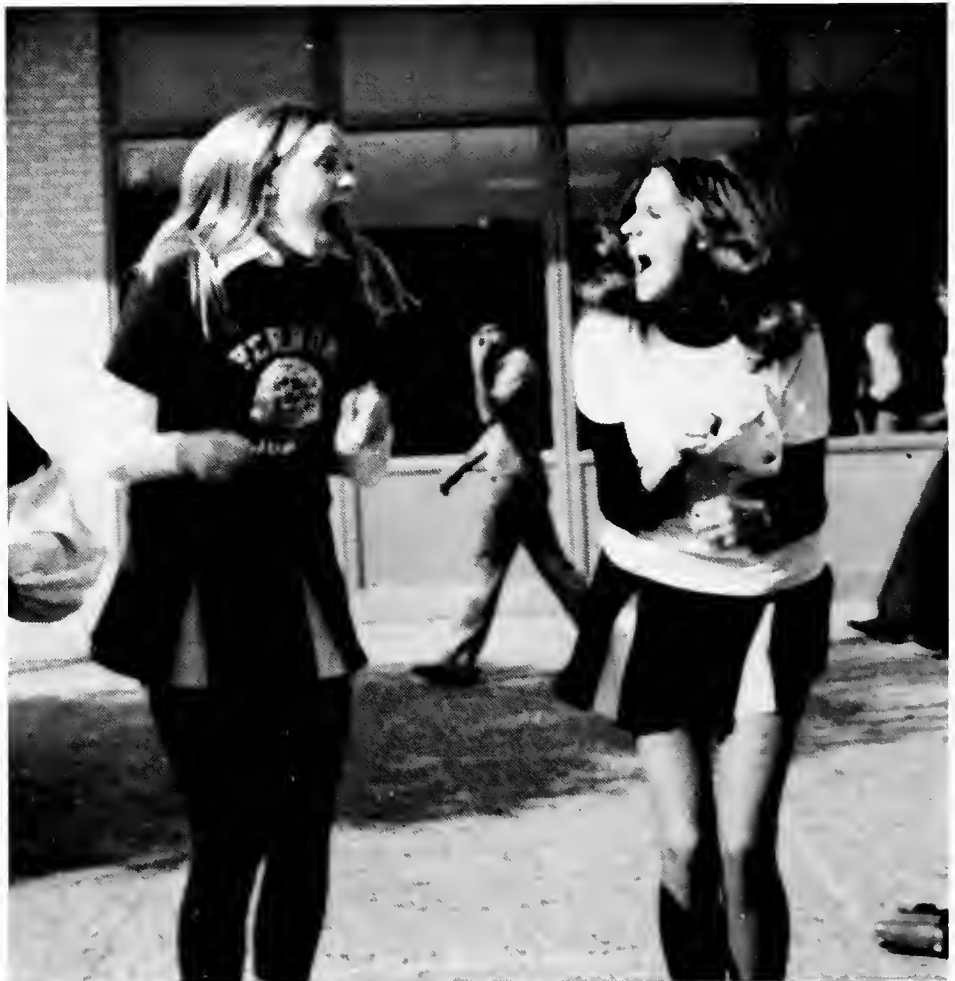

Mixing fun with frolic, Lionettes earned a reputation throughout the Greenbelt area as one of the best drill teams in North Texas.

Drill team officers are: Becky Reynolds, President; Kathy Wilhelm, vice-president; Treva Clifton, secretary, and; Jeanne Brooks, treasurer. These girls were chosen by the drill team, and the president is required to be a squad leader. They are the ruling body of the organization.

Pensive Mrs. Linda Claborn huddles inside her jacket against a brisk wind during Drill Team practice.

Squad leaders Lisa Jones and Francis Hanna show a tremendous amount of "fighting Lion spirit" during a moment of rapture in the courtyard. Drill team squad leaders are notoriously known for having an abundance of energy and spirit. These girls are junior squad leaders who are noted for their willingness to participate.

Routines Range From Kicks to Jazz

Wilhelm. The Drill Team learned many and performed them. Each expression depicts the high emotion of the game.

The Drill Team was a great spirit booster of the pep rallies. Members of the drill team scattered out and sat with different classes. These seniors clown around before the pep rally.

Practice, practice, practice — this was the theme song of the Lionettes through the heat of August, through the floods of October, through the cold winds of November. The 94 spritely spirit makers plus advisor Mrs. Linda Claborn worked out complicated routines and practiced until they were executed with a skill attested to by fans at both home and out-of-town games.

Changing from the old shorts and cut-offs of practice sessions to the smart white boots and trim maroon uniforms of show-time, drill team members even then sneak time for fun and frolic and unlimited conversations to make the many hours of attaining perfection worthwhile.

Squad Leaders Drill

To show their spirit, the Vernon Lionettes form a victory line from the Lions dressing room to the field. They cheered the boys before the game as well as at halftime. The colorful pom-poms and uniforms were an added attraction to the game as well as a great boost to the players.

Nona Sheridan, a member of the drill team, shows her spirit by painting windows downtown.

Elected by the drill team are squad leaders; Cindy Garrison, Carolyn Grimes, Kym Boynton, Becky Reynolds, Lisa Jones, Francis Hanna, and Kathy Wilhelm. These girls learned all the routines and taught them to the rest of the drill team.

Six Bustling Leaders Rouse Spirits

Take six happy, fun-loving, and spirited girls, one young adventurous teacher, and what do you have? A fresh alive group, ready to give their all to the Lions, Vernon High School, and each other. A cheerleader is a position of honor and responsibility, and requires much time and hard work. The cheerleaders are responsible for raising the spirit of the student body and the townspeople for all the athletic events of the school. All these activities lend themselves to the busy life of a cheerleader.

Mrs. Sandra LeBus, who is cheerleader sponsor, also teaches history at V.H.S.

Cheerleaders Hold Position of Honor

During a spirited pep rally, three vigorous Lion-hearted cheerleaders go through a spirit raising pom-pom routine to the tune of Dixie. These dedicated girls carry out their duties, working hard to promote good sportsmanship.

What is a Cheerleader?

Each of six spirited misses would say, first it is a position of honor. Mrs. Sandra Lebus, advisor, would say a cheerleader is a hard-working, dedicated student who puts school loyalty before self.

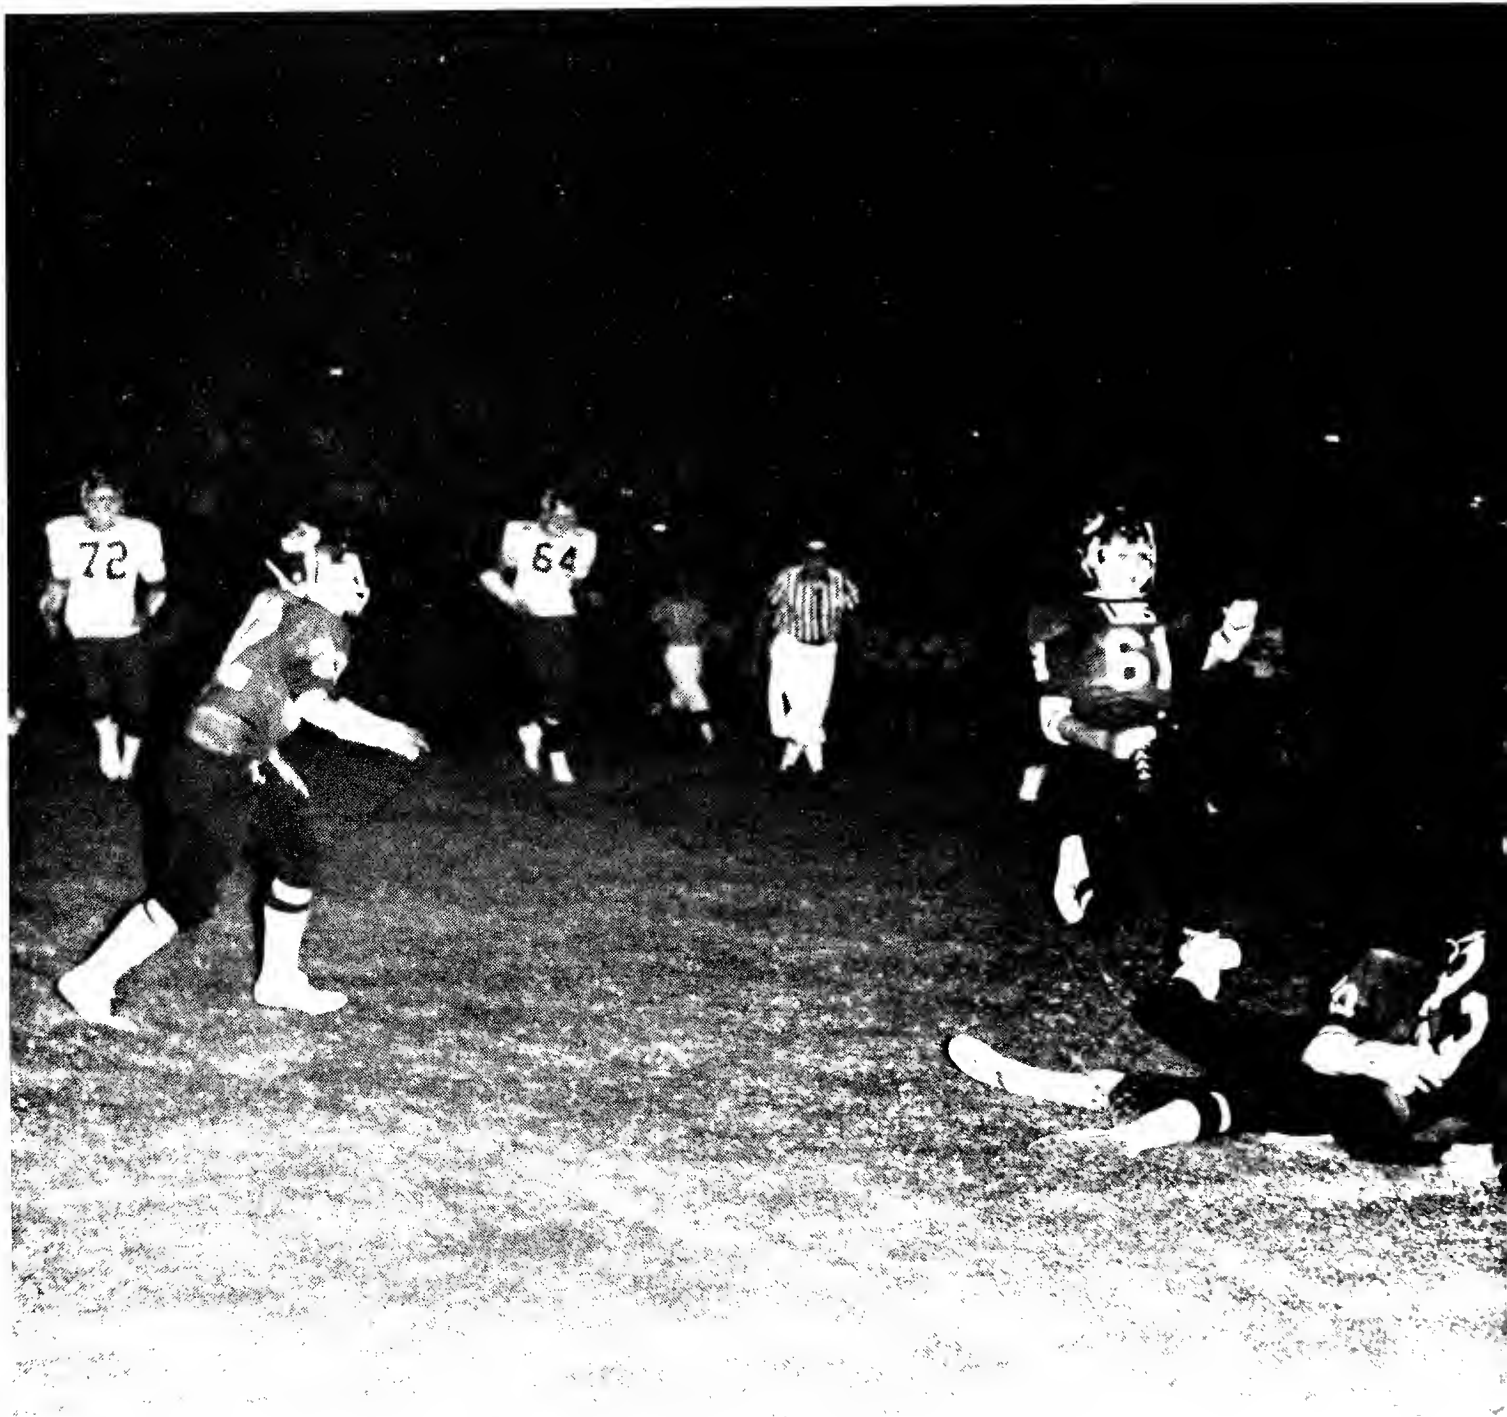

Elected to office by popular vote of the respective classes, cheerleader candidates must have a scholastic average of 85 in all areas. In addition, candidates must have a record of exemplary conduct.

Aside from regular daily practice, the two elected cheerleaders from each class attend a workshop at Southern Methodist University during the summer.

Hard-working energetic cheerleaders and Lion Mascot keep spirit alive as they bring the Lions on to the field after a half-time pep talk. These girls show unbelievable endurance as they execute their tasks during football as well as the rest of the athletic season.

Sports

Come together! Sports — Football, basketball, tennis, track, volleyball and golf — bring us together.

During football, everyone works together — team, band, drill team and fans. Townspeople are behind the Lions one hundred percent.

There are times in basketball when fans rise in suspense and are brought together.

Members of the track team work together to make team spirit. Track is a fan sport with tracksters and fans running together in mind.

Volleyball — action-packed, fast-paced girls' sport requires skill and dedication. Fans feel every move made.

Golf is a teamwork game. At tournaments scores are arrived at through combining each member's score into one total.

Sports in every way, form and fashion bring people together.

Coach Is Giver of All of Self

The man in the school called the coach is the most important person around. Many people think a coach doesn't have anything to do and his job is easy. Those people just don't understand exactly what it is a coach does. A coach gives all of himself to the football team, fans, and townspeople. A coach builds his life around football and all it concerns. His job depends upon the performance of the team, and most fans are not concerned with how well the job was done, only what the score was. A Coach wants victory more than anything else in the world, and most of the time people don't think of this. Coaches are demanding but that's what makes them what they are. The training rules set forth are practices of each man. The character of a coach is one that players can look up to and admire. We should be very thankful for the man called "Coach." The next time you see your coach and he isn't wearing a smile how about giving him one of yours. He deserves it.

Tough defense of the Breckenridge tries to hold those powerful Lions back, but can not quite get the job done.

Buckaroos Bounced 7-6

The mighty Vernon Lions started their 1972 season off with a bang by capturing the Breckenridge Buckaroos with a 7 to 6 victory.

Bill Moore and O'Keefe Cairo carried the offensive load for the Lions. Playing key roles on defense were Greg Jones, John Harris and Walter Krieg.

Midway in the first quarter the Lions started a scoring drive after Ed Russell recovered a fumble.

On a busted play Breckenridge quarterback, Russell Herring ran straight up the middle 29 yards. Four plays later he cracked over for the six points. A fumble on the extra point attempt gave the Lions a one point lead.

The Lions seem to be breaking down after fumbling a kickoff, but the Lions held ground to the Bucks.

Raiders Beaten by Lions 21-14

Everyone thought the Vernon Lions were down when they fell behind 14-0 in the first quarter, but they came back battling to win 21-14.

The Raiders broke open for a 36-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimmage. Rider scored again on a drive that started on Vernon's 34 yard line. Ricky Townson intercepted in the end zone to break up the Raiders next drive. With the aid of a penalty Rider drove to the Vernon 10 yard line. Vernon scored on a 75 yard run by Van Frater. Kyle Westmoreland's extra point was no good. Lions held a 14-14 score tie with 49 seconds in the third quarter. Late in the fourth quarter O'Keefe Cairo found a hole and ran for a touchdown. Another Lion drive was killed by a threat of penalties. With only seconds remaining, quarterback Eddie Pruitt wisely ran out the clock with keeper plays. Every Lion played an outstanding game.

Altus Bulldogs Yield to Lions

The Vernon Lions took a lesson on Oklahoma playing rules from the Altus Bulldogs and the Lions issued a course on football with a victory of 45-12.

Charged with 180 yards in penalties, mainly because of differences in rules, the Lions held a powerful defense and an explosive offense. The Bulldogs, defending the Oklahoma state champions were shocked by the invaders from Lion Land.

Vernon Chains 'Puppies' 45-12

Altus opened the scoring in the final seconds of the first quarter with a pass to receiver Bill Hinson. The Lions started a drive of 71 yards and scored with a pass from Pruitt to Kays. Kyle Westmorland booted the extra point. After O'Keefe Cairo and Bill Moore pounded out yardage, the Lions scored on a two-yard pass from Pruitt to Van Frater. Two minutes later the Lions crossed the goal line as Pruitt pitched a screen to Jimmy Reece, who then ran 59 yards for the TD. Less than a minute later Altus fumbled and Van Frater scored again. John Harris broke up a pitch out and made another six points, then Walter Krieg set up the next Lion score. The Bulldogs scored with eight seconds remaining.

Coaches Don Berry and Ronnie Stout greet halfback Jimmy Reece after he returns to the sideline following a 59-yard touchdown run with a screen pass. During the game Reece carried five times for 54 yards. He was among the outstanding Lion offensive players in the game.

to escape the Dogs with expert blocking help by Mark Ramsey (82).

Mark Ramsey (82) covered by two Iowa Park defense players, grabs a pass. The defensive plays were the highlights of the district opener. The Iowa Park Hawks are defending district champs.

Lions Defeated 7-3

The Vernon Lions came out on the bad side of the first district game against the Iowa Park Hawks with a loss of 7-3.

The defensive units of both teams dominated the game. During the contest the Lions turned the ball over six times and the Hawks only two.

The scoring was not opened until the third quarter when Kyle Westmoreland made a 26-yard field goal. After the score the play set with a drive by Iowa Park, which the Lions stopped on a fourth down and one to go.

Iowa Parks defense stiffened when the Lions marched to their 14-yard line but failed to score. The Hawks took the following kick off and went 60 yards for the score. The drive took only 10 plays.

The Lions missed a scoring opportunity when a pass from quarterback Eddie Pruitt was intercepted in the end zone.

The Hawks threatened twice but both times the Lion's defense stopped them.

Lions Mash Yellowjackets 40-6

After a 40 to 6 victory over the Stephenville Yellowjackets, the Vernon Lions remained in the district championship scramble.

The Vernon defensive unit was very effective forcing the Yellowjackets into eight miscues, six fumbles, and two pass interceptions. The Lions took the opening kickoff and went 77 yards for a touchdown. Cornerback Ricky Townson put the Lions in scoring position again a few minutes later when he intercepted a pass. The score came on a pass from quarterback Eddie Pruitt to end Grady Kays. The lead was extended when Van Frater scored again. The Yellowjackets could not keep the Lions down. The Lions last score came with 5:27 left to play.

Lions Bow 14-7 to Burkburnett

With only seconds remaining in the game, the Burkburnett safety intercepted a Vernon pass to snap a 7-7 tie and aid in the 14-7 Bulldog victory.

The Vernon Lions were hampered by rain which attributed for the seven turnovers, four fumbles, and three pass interception.

Excellent defensive play of the Lions prevented Burk scores on five occasions. The Bulldogs attempted three field goals, two missed and one blocked by Arthur Embers.

A fumble on Vernon's second offensive play set the Bulldogs up, but a jarring tackle by the Lions caused a fumble regained by defensive end Walter Kreig.

The Bulldogs score came on a pitch out from quarterback Sam Hahcock to Zac Henderson.

The Lions took the following kick-off and marched to the Burk 20-yard line but fumbled on a first down. On their next possession the Lions got to the 13 but failed to score. The Lions scored on a great run by Bill Moore with blocking by Kays and Cooner. The fatal play came with 37 seconds left.

Jimmy Reece (20) catches a seven yard pass from quarterback Eddie Pruitt during a Vernon drive against the Burkburnett Bulldogs. Bernon Smith attempts to intercept.

Hirschi Downs Vernon 28-13

The Hirschi Huskies showed their powers as they downed the battling Vernon Lions 28-13. The Huskies scored a touchdown in each of the four quarters to claim the win. The Lions were weakened by injuries prior to the game but fought to the end.

Fullback Bill Moore carried for an even 100 yards and quarterback Eddie Pruitt was on target with most of his passes. Jimmy Reece, Van Frater, and Ed Russell gave strong performances.

One of the most fantastic plays of the game was an 80-yard touchdown pass from Pruitt to end Grady Kays. Van Frater blocked two Huskies trailing Kays to the goal line. Vernon's defensive unit once again played an outstanding game.

The Huskies took the opening kickoff and drove to the Vernon 16 where they fumbled and Kyle Westmoreland recovered. Late in the opening period the Huskies managed to score with a bomb from quarterback Johnson to Gary Hines.

The Lions fumbled in the second quarter to set up Huskie scoring opportunities. They scored with a strike from Johnson to end David Hays.

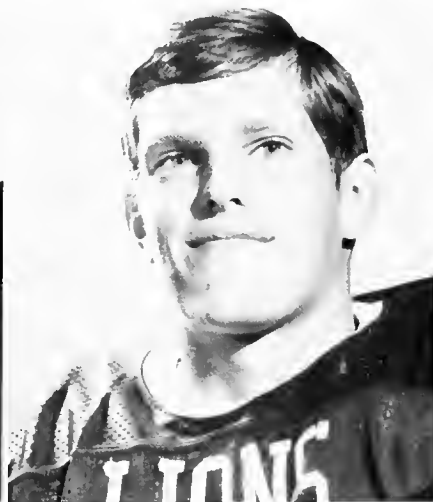

The Lions took the following kickoff and marched to the Hirschi 10. Key plays in the drive were hard-yardage by Van Frater and Bill Moore. The drive ended when a Huskie player intercepted in the end zone.

After the half the Lions came back and marched in to Hirschi territory, but a dropped pass stopped the drive. Hirschi then moved to the Vernon five yard line with two runs and a pass. Halfback Bruce Szymanske found running room for the six points.

Late in the third quarter Grady Kays rambled for a Vernon touchdown. After the kickoff, Vernon scored again with 2:58 left in the game.

Brownwood won a 21 to 0 victory over the Vernon Lions but the score was no show for how the game was played.

Early in the game Brownwood caught the Vernon Lions off guard and scored on a 51-yard pass play. A few seconds later VHS Lions gave Brownwood a scoring opportunity with a fumble loss for a score.

Ground Game Yields 21-18 Win

The Lions let three scoring opportunities slip away in the first quarter but then held ground to a 21-18 victory over the Graham Steers. The Lions put it all together in the second quarter with a 66-yard drive and score. Quarterback Eddie Pruitt's passing was a great aid in the drive. The Steers had a chance to score when the Lions faked a punt and suffered an incomplete pass. The Steers scored a two-yard blast after driving 35 yards.

Lions-Kangaroos Tie 20-20

The Vernon Lions and the Weatherford Kangaroos finished the 1973 season with a 20-20 tie. Eleven seniors played their final game for Vernon. Highlights of the game were the running of Bill Moore, and Jimmy Reece, and passing of Eddie Pruitt.

The Lions took the opening kickoff and downed the ball on their own four yard line and were unable to move the ball. The Kangaroos took the punt and stepped to a score. The Lions scored on a pass from Pruitt to end Grady Kays. Later the Lions intercepted a pass and scored a touchdown. Before the Half the Roo's took a short kick and ran for a touchdown. The Lions scored in the fourth period for a tie.

Vernon Lions Arthur Embers, Ken Robinson, Mark Ramsey, Kim Arnold, and Duane Robinson help each other out as they finished out their 1972 playing season against the Weatherford Kangaroos.

The Lions and the Kangaroos fought a neck and neck battle only to hold each other to a 20-20 tie.

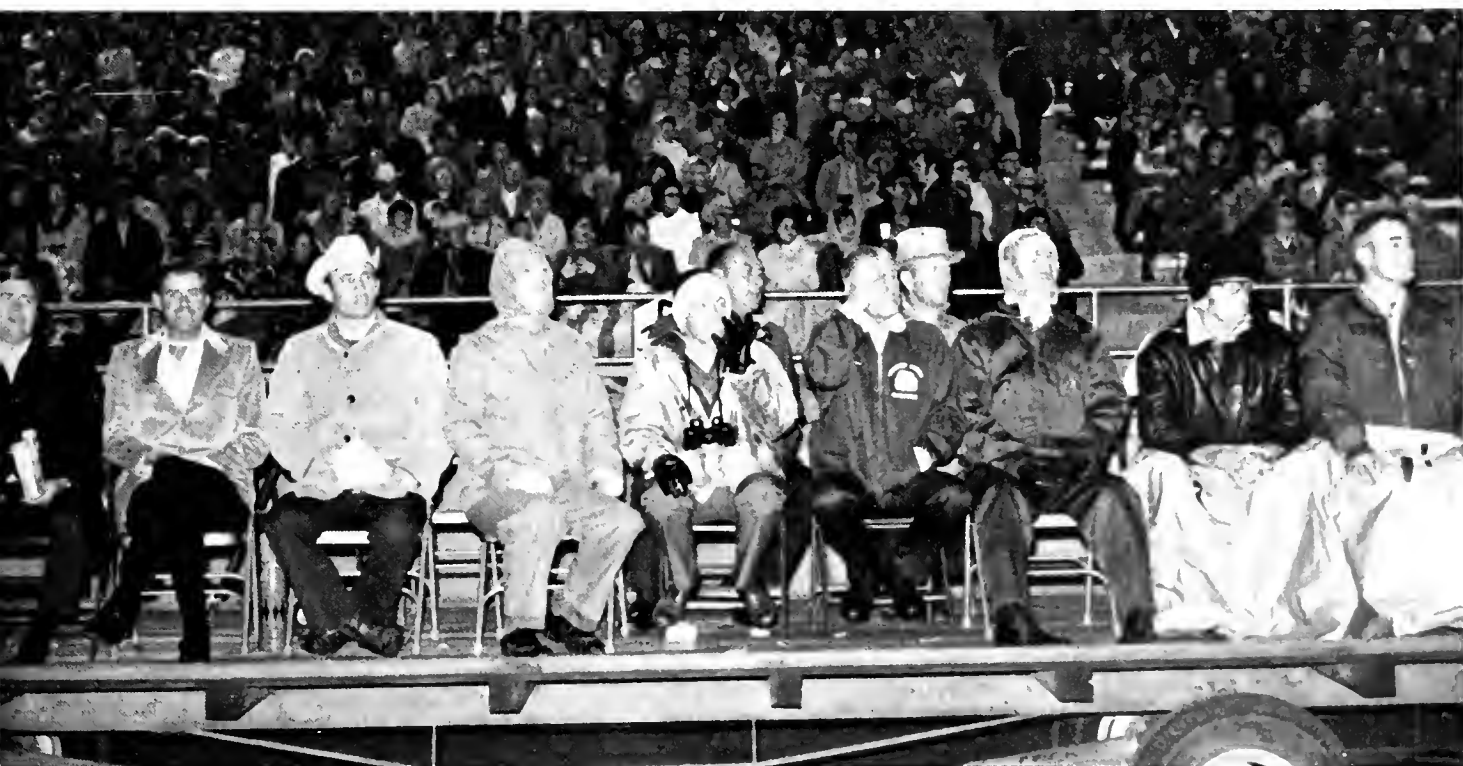

Game Dedicated to Lion Dads

The Vernon Lions worked very hard in practices before the season started so they would be in perfect playing condition. Quarterback Eddie Pruitt hands off to fullback Bill Moore while O'Keefe Cairo is on the play. The Lions practiced very hard to start the season.

Happy Vernon Lions defense takes over just after the offense has scored in the game against the Altus Bulldogs. The Lions played a fantastic game to win a 40-12 victory.

Every year the Lions dedicate one night to "Dads." Each father wears the number of his son and sits in front of the grandstands.

Junior Varsity Season Good

The Vernon Junior Varsity consisting of two Juniors and eighteen Sophomores had a good season of play. The scrappy bunch of Cougars had great team and individual spirit. They worked very hard in spite of the small number on the team. The size and number of opponents the Cougars met made them fight a little harder to even the odds. The Cougars played Breckenridge, Iowa Park, Bruckburnett, Hirschi, Rider, and Wichita Falls.

Under the leadership of coaches Ronnie Stout and Jabe Brazzle the Cougars learn how to someday become a Lion. They work hard and set their goals high knowing they will become a Lion.

It is not easy for a Cougar to put out all his effort and more like it is for the Lions. The stadium is full so the Lions feel like they have something to play for. That is not so for the Cougars. The stadium is not full, so they must put it all out on their effort Cougars are future Lions.

Coaches Ronnie Stout and Jabe Brazzle

Bobby McMahan (25) carries the ball for a gain on the play with excellent blocking from Roger Beam (75) and Mike Railsback (44) in the game against Breckenridge. The Cougars put it together with team work to play a hard fought game. The Cougars opened the season with Breckenridge.

Quarterback John Leslie (12) keeps the ball and carries for a gainer with blocking from Roger Beam (75) and David Harris (81).

Mike Railsback (22) takes the ball and runs for needed yardage with help of blocking by Roger Bram (75) against the Burkburnett Bull-Pups.

Cubs Wind-Up Good Season

The Vernon Cubs made up by Freshmen closed with a good season. Under the leadership of Coaches Corky Cox, Doyle Close, and Carl Miller the cubs worked very hard. This being their first year to play High School football the cubs were anxious and ready to play. Following in the Cougars footsteps, the clubs found out there was a lot more hard work involved than in Junior High days. Many times the Cubs met up with guys lots bigger and more experienced, but they always overcame the odds. The Cubs goals are set extremely high hoping someday to first be a Cougar and then a Lion. Sometimes Cubs feel unimportant but they are very important.

Coaches Doyle Close, Corky Cox, Carl Miller

Freshman Cub Russ Haney is over for the six points as team members assist in blocking against the Iowa Park freshman team. The Cubs played a very tough game.

Vernon Cub Russ Haney (21) carries on the play for the extra yards with blocking help from Steve Cooner (75), Donnie Raschke (89), Jimmy Lewis (50), and Danny Benard (73). The Cubs had a strong and powerful team. The team worked together beautifully to overcome opponents.

Vernon Cub Russ Haney (21) tries to escape a defender on a short yard scamper. Haney carried many times for the Cubs.

Cub Lee Cook (30) escapes around end from the Huskie defense players. The Cub front line opens many holes for the backfield. The Cubs finished the season in good condition.

Basketball

Basketball Is Speedy Sport

Basketball may be considered a minor sport in some school circles, but the fast-paced, action packed game is a test of physical endurance, perfect timing, and ball-handling dexterity. Played in the heart of winter, players remember icy highways, drafty gymnasiums. The fact that there is only a handful of dedicated fans cheering the players on puts a damper on their spirits. The fans often find themselves so involved in the game they forget they are not actually playing. Basketball players must be in top physical condition to endure the fast pace. The players are very dedicated to their game. Basketball is often a forgotten sport.

Ricky Morgan (20) struggles for a loose ball in the game against the Mineral Wells Rams as Danny Gordan (50) is on the play helping his teammate get the ball.

Vernon Lion Darrell Bohanon (44) shoots for two points against the Childress Bobcats. The Lions played a good game and opened the season in good condition.

Ricky Morgan (54) jumps for the tip off against the Iowa Park Hawks.

B-Team Players in Top Shape

Steve Craighead, Kim Kidd, L. D. Favors, Terry Harvey, Bill Bristo, Terry Spears, Arthur Embers, Cornelius Frater, John Leslie, Allan

Sharp are members of the Cougar Basketball team.

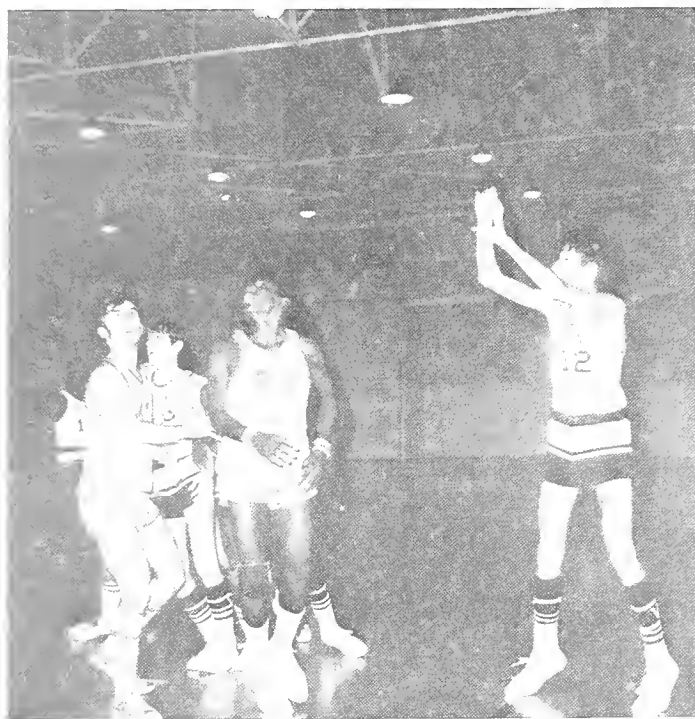

Ten Members Make Team

Vernon Cougar Basketball team under Coach Bob Ledbetter finished the 1973 season with a good record. The team consisting of ten members worked very hard. In fast-moving action of B-Team Basketball, the players must be in top shape. Working and training the players and coach put in many hours of hard work.

Coach Bob Ledbetter

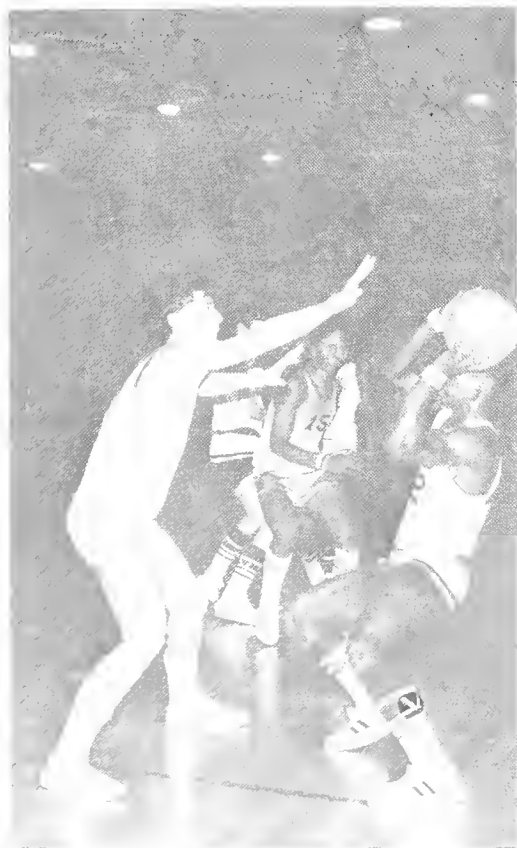

Cougars Look Forward to Varsity

Vernon Cougar Terry Spears (12) makes the two point shot as teammate Terry Harvey blocks out defensive players. Spears is a consistent scorer.

Cougar Kim Kidd (25) goes in for a lay-up as an Iowa Park defender tries to block his way. Bill Bristo (31) stands by for the rebound.

Cougar ball handler L. D. Favors looks for someone to pass the ball to as an opponent stands in his way.

Arthur Embers (33) works the ball around on opponent and drives toward the goal for a shot. The Cougars ended the season in good condition.

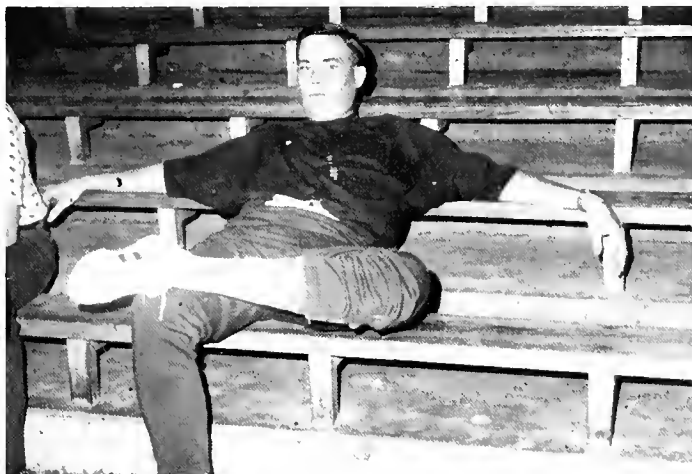

Mr. Ledbetter Coaches Cougars

Vernon Cougar Terry Spears (11) scores two needed points to put the team ahead. The Cougars played very hard throughout the entire season of play.

Key player Terry Spears (11) shoots for two points. The Cougars worked hard to overcome obstacles and finished the season in good shape.

Frosh Finish Good Season

The Freshman Basketball team under coach Doyle Close had a good season. Even though they didn't win every game the players gained lots of experience. This being their first year to play High School Basketball there were many new things to learn. The Freshman learn what High School is, which is something very different.

Coach Doyle Close

Russ Haney shoots for a field goal as Gary Frederick (32), Jackson Jordan (20), put a defense. The Cubs played very good basketball.

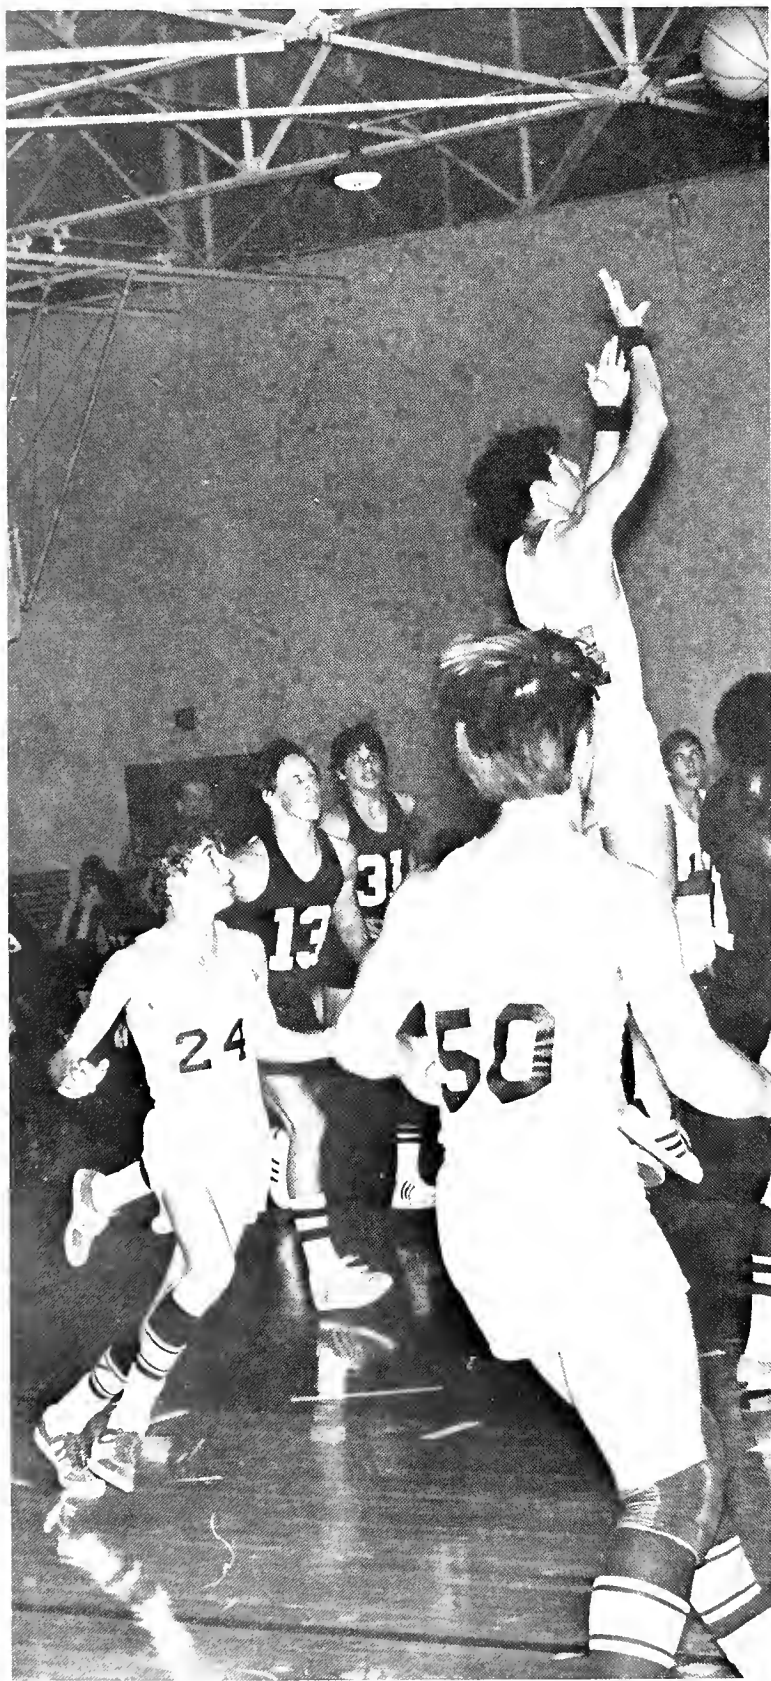

Cub Russ Haney makes a jump shot for two points. Haney was an outstanding scorer for the Cubs.

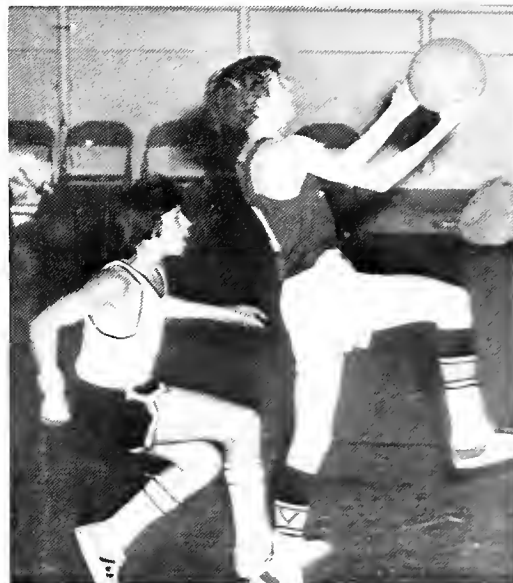

Bobby McMahan makes a needed two points to keep the Cubs in the lead. The freshmen under coach Doyle Close finished the season in good condition.

Track Opens Doors for Ladies

The Vernon Lionettes coached by Corky Cox consists of ten members. Although the team was small, the Lionettes made up for it by hard work and great spirit. The girls worked together to attain that essential thing for a basketball team — team-work. The Lionettes finished their season in good condition and reached a goal of team spirit.

Coach Corky Cox

Vernon Lionette Pat Gaines (35) makes a jump shot for two points. Pat is one of the high scoring key Varsity Players.

Coach Linda Clayborn watches a practice with satisfaction.

Winning Is Dedication

The B-Team is the backbone of the girls Basketball program. This is the first chance they have to learn what it's all about. Under the guidance of Coach Linda Clayborn they begin to take the shape of future Varsity players. Many long hard hours are put into practices. It takes dedication to endure the work that comes with the glory of winning.

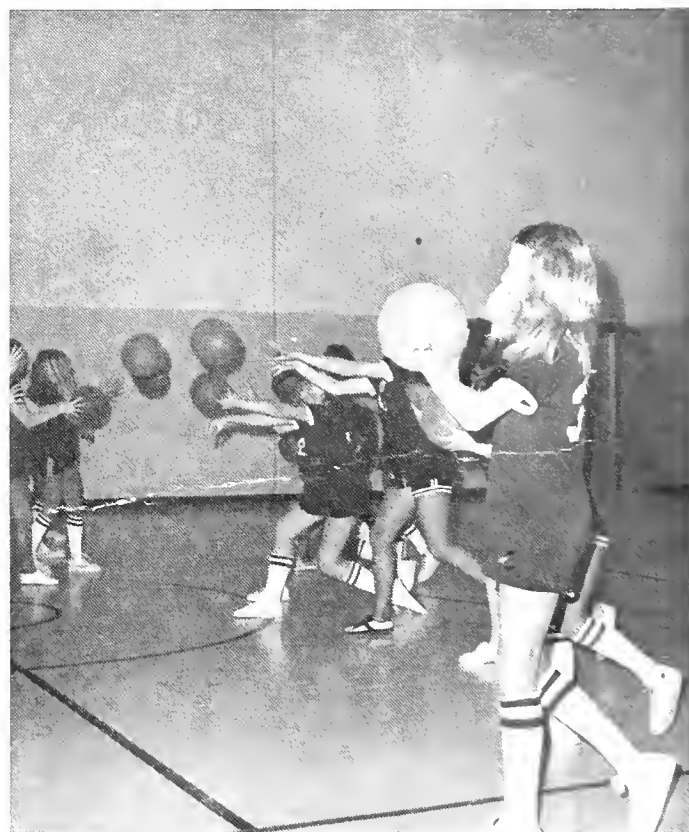

Vernon B-Team member Julie Browning makes the shot for two points as the opponent tries to block it. Vernon teammates await the rebound. The B-Team girls worked very hard during practices to learn the fundamentals of Basketball.

Julie Browning (15) goes in for a lay-up to make two points. Opponents try to block it but their efforts are no good.

During the pre-game warm-up, B-Team girls are practicing a drill of ball handling and passing.

Varsity Volleyball Vies for Title

First Row: Kathy Barrier, Brabra McKay, Elaine McGann, Becky Reynolds, Terri Howard, Nona Sherdian. Second Row: Cherri Robertson, Lisa Jones, Luann Byrd, Frances Hanna, Mary Sue Greschal.

Varsity players Elaine McGann and Brabra McKay both go for the ball and set it up for a spike.

Luann Byrd sets the ball up for another team member to spike or hit the ball over.

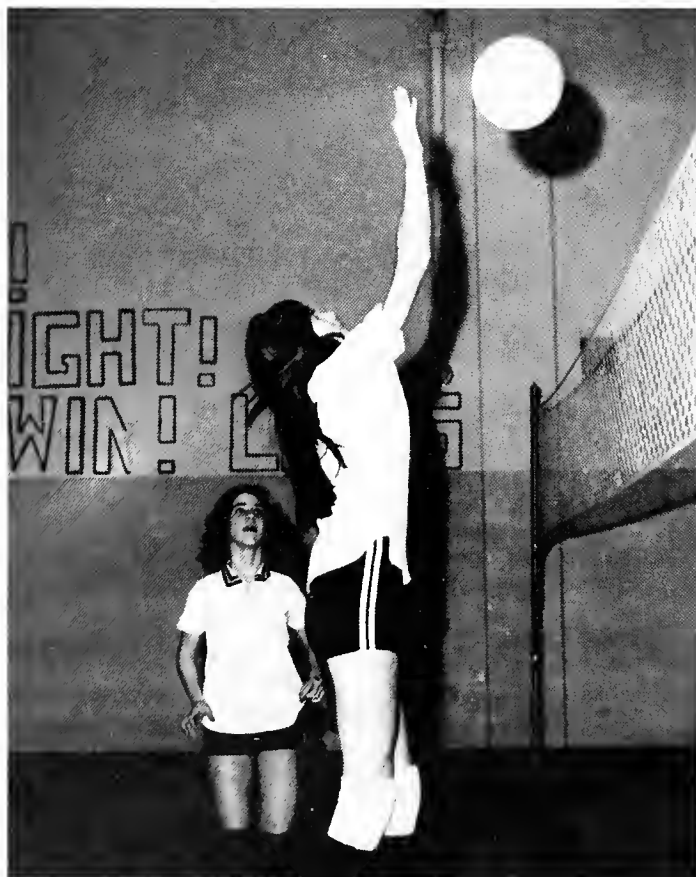

Power Ball Requires Skill

The Varsity Volleyball team under Coach Linda Claybourn isn't very large but they are powerful. Volleyball is something that you don't play in a P.E. class. It takes power and skill to master the game. The girls practice long and hard hours. They drill to achieve the correct skill. The Varsity competes for a District Title. The team plays against opponents from every school in our district. Now a days Volleyball is called power ball. The team works to gain strong power. Volleyball is a team-work sport. Every individual must be able to work with everyone on the team. They must cooperate and work together. Volleyball is all together a skillful sport.

Volleyball Team Shows Power

First Row: Lil Prehn, Cherry Brown, Laura Hopper, Cindy Walker. Second Row: Amy Hightower, Terry Donges, Leah Birnbaum, Sherry Allan.

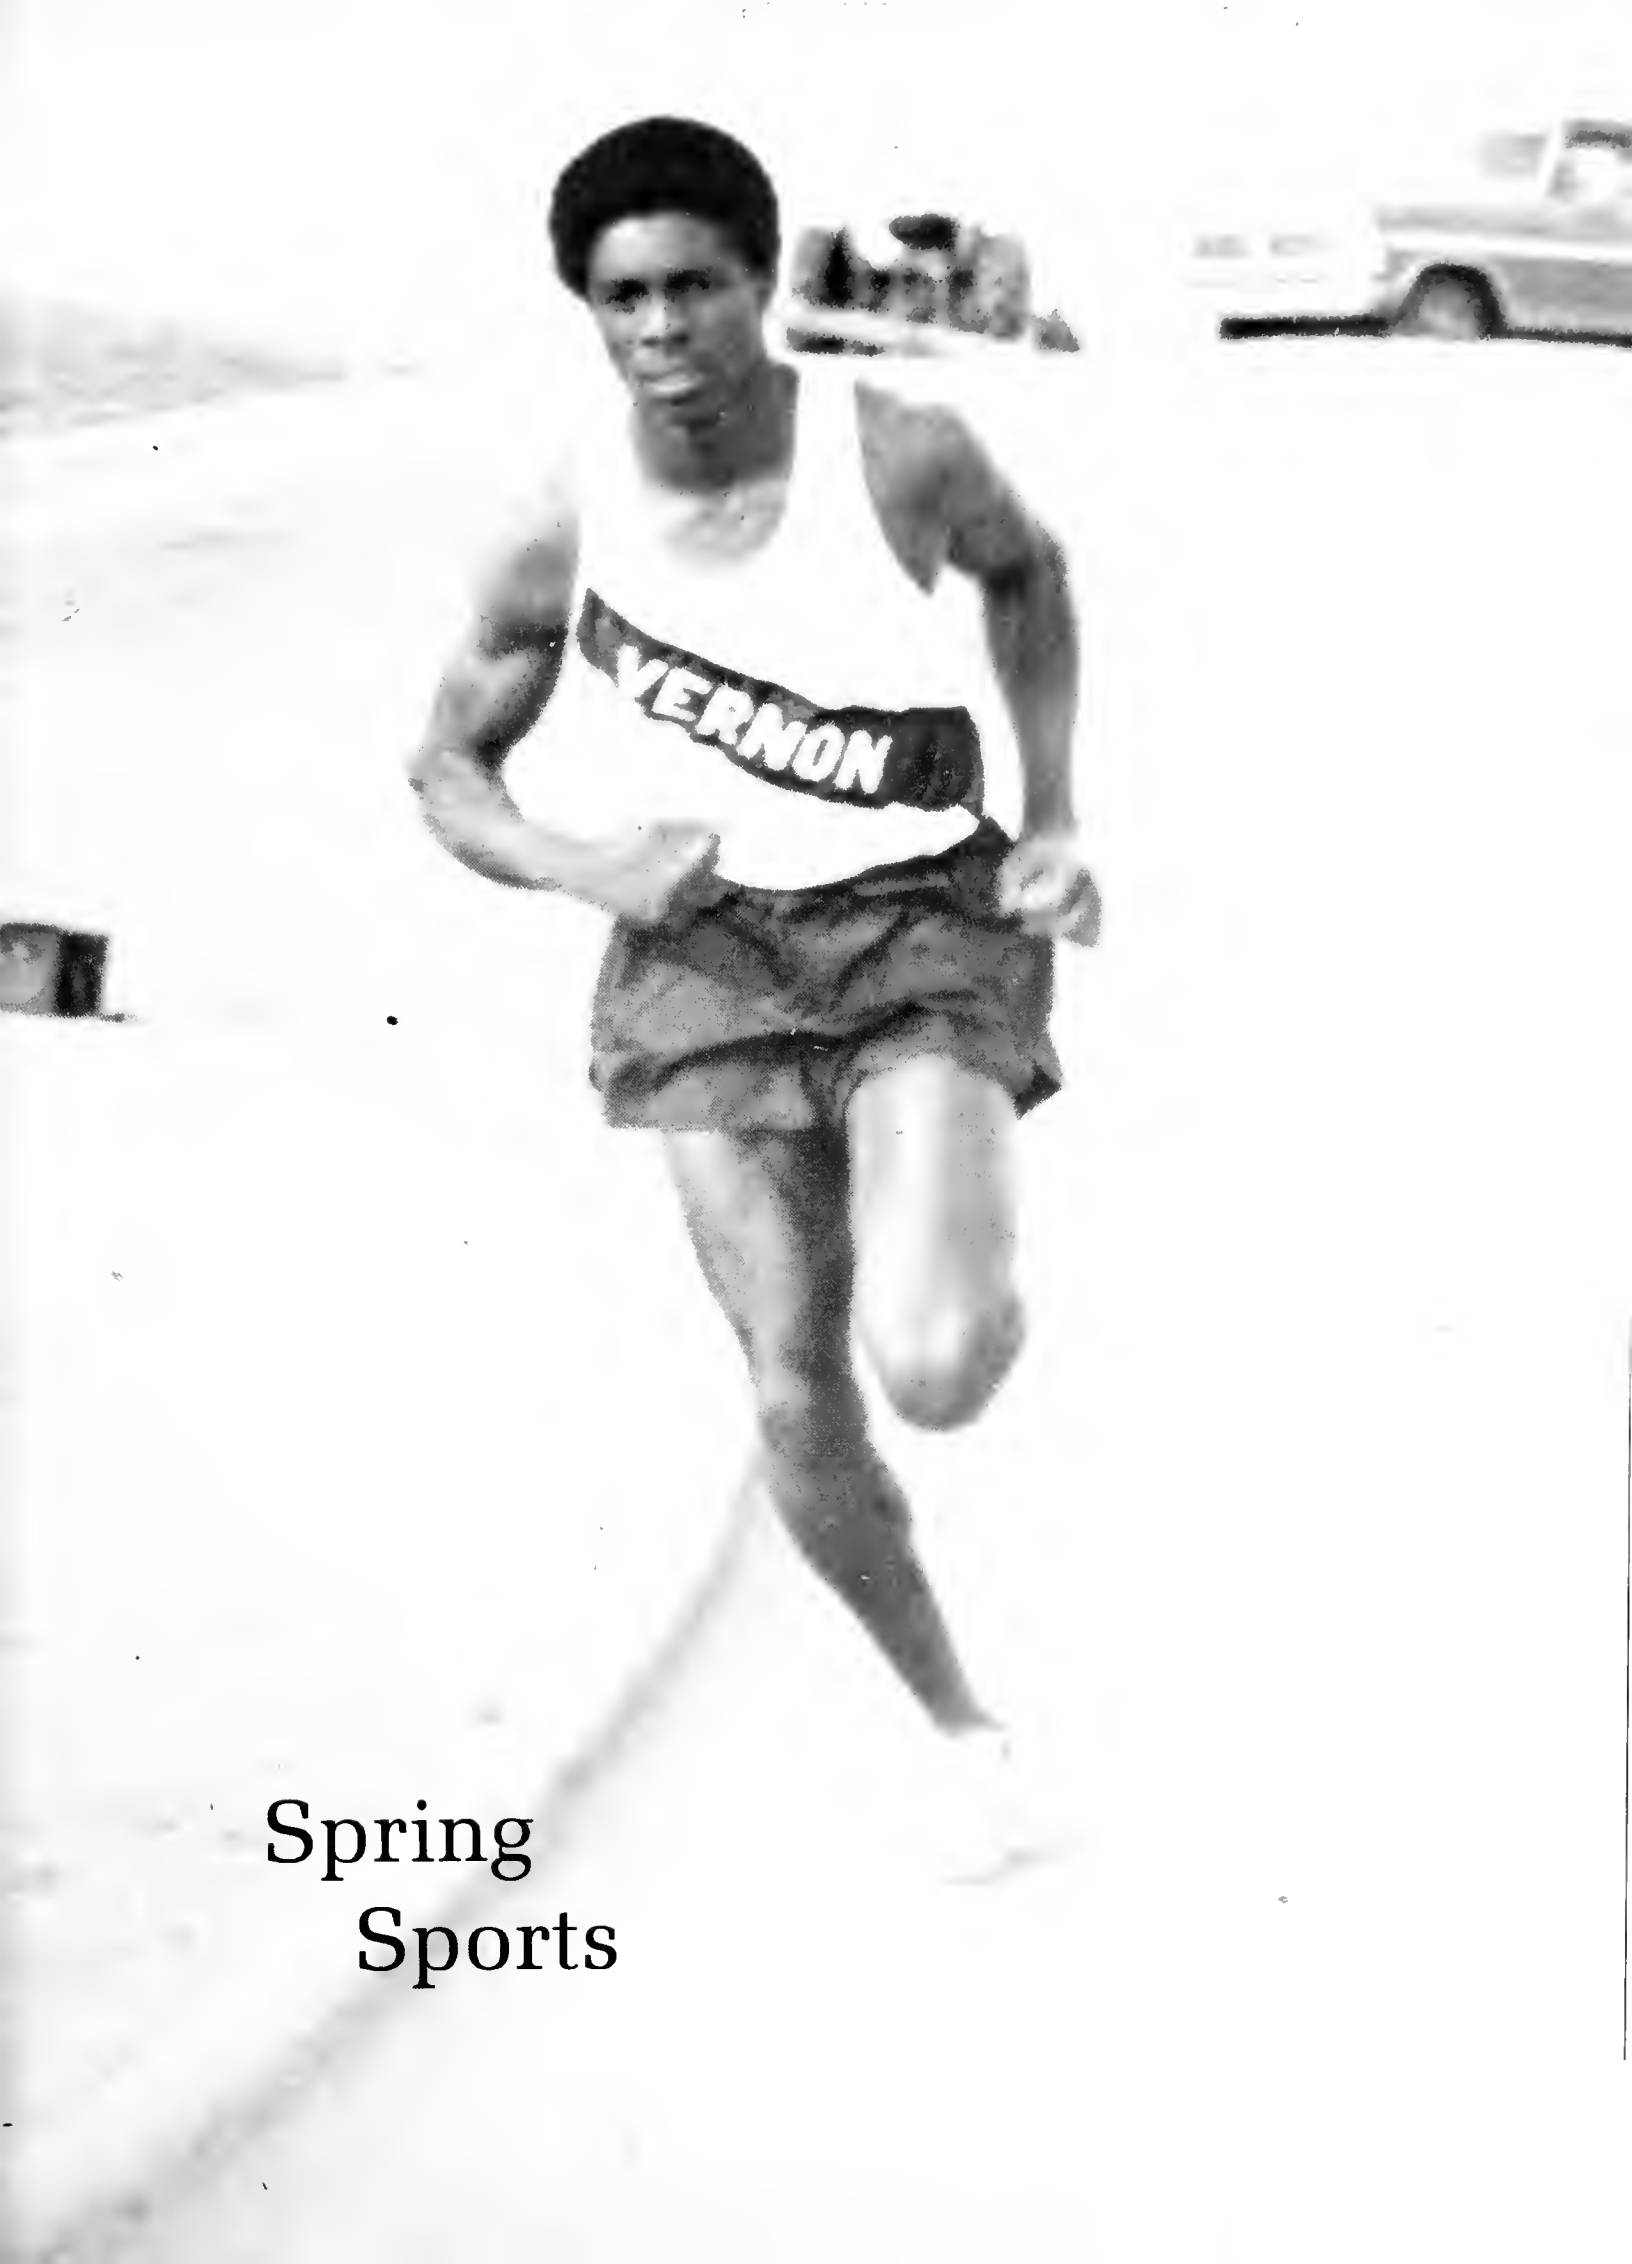

B-Team player Sherry Allen spikes the ball while teammate Leah Birnbaum assists. The B-Team had a very strong team and played well.

The small but powerful B-Volleyball team finished their season in good condition. The B-Team girls learn how to play Volleyball all over again. It is quite different than just playing in P.E. class. Now it is a sport and they compete against other schools. There are certain techniques they must learn and many bad habits to break. They practice different drills to attain the skill needed to play power Volleyball.

Amy Hightower returns a serve while Cherry Brown is ready to assist.

David Harris a sophomore player, aims for a drive off the tee box. He is an asset.

Senior Troy Brown, a returning letterman is warming up before he tees off.

Golf Team Swings, Putts

With returning lettermen and new members of the Varsity golf team has great chances of grabbing the District Title. Under leadership of coach Bobby Stevens the team practices everyday after school at Hillcrest Country Club. People who don't know or like golf thinks it is stupid to chase a little white ball around. Golf has many things to offer. It teaches a person to have a great amount of patience. Golf is basically a game of strategy and skill. For this reason the team practices swings and putts to develop golfing techniques.

Coach Bobby Stevens, Vernon High School Golf Coach and Jim Parmer watch as one of the members sets up and gets ready to practice.

Benji Wagner brags at one of his fantastic shots to Russell Pruitt. But Russell asks why it took him ten strokes to get it out of the water.

Don Word explains the game of golf to Donnie Coble by first telling him he needs a tee and a ball before you can use the golf club.

Tennis Team Starts Practice

First Row: Nona Sheridan, Pan Hardin, Luann Byrd, Deena Wright.
Second Row: John Renfor, Eddie Schuaman, Kelly Stewart, Mark Prehn, Andy Duffie, Stan Steele, Doug Duffie. Third Row: Dan

Coach Linda Clayborn watches with the look of satisfaction while the varsity tennis team practices a drill of agility. Mrs. Clayborn supervises the team on many drills to help them get in shape.

The Varsity tennis team coached by Linda Clayborn started preparing for the 73 season by hard vigorous practices after school. The team will travel to tournaments as far as San Angelo. With outstanding facilities such as the 'Stroke Master' ball machine and six roomy courts, the team will be in top shape to meet their opponent. Tennis is a sport in its own category. When players step on the court to play a match they enter a world of deep concentration and stamina. A person has the fun of working on a team but the responsibility of performing as an individual. Fair play and good sportsmanship is a vital factor in the game of tennis.

Netters Open Conference Play

Playing around after a hard practice Dan Miller, David Wright, Doug Duffie, Gary Fre-dreick, Kelly Stewart make Pam Hardin useful. The freshman boys are always adding a little fun to practice.

Junior double partners Stan Steele and Andy Duffie meet after a game point to talk over their game plan. Steele and Duffie are very good prospects of being District Champs.

Singles player Greg Thomas rushes the net to get the advantage over his opponent, Gerg and Mark Prehn will battle it out for the top position.

During a break Nona Sheridan, Stan Steele, Deena Wright, and Andy Duffie take time to talk over the teams chance at the District Title.

Beverly Henaon, Carolyn Weaver, Lorraine Waggoner, Pat Gaines, Mary Ann Tobar, Leah Lambert, Betty Williams.

In the world of sports there's not much for girls to do. Track has opened a new door. The girls team now participates in UIL competition. Pat Gaines was a finalists in the State Meet last year. The team is coached by Corky Cox. They practice during the girls sports period. Everyone on the team works very hard. Girls that become athletes are very dedicated to their work. The girls on the team put track before anything else. Girls track is a great opportunity for female athletes.

Junior Shelly Baker finishes that last lap to wind up a hard days practice.

Sprinter Carolyn Weaver is practicing for the 220-yd. dash. She also runs the relay.

Pat Gaines, who is a two time State Meet finalists, practices sprinting and the proper breathing methods in hopes of returning to the State Meet.

With much ease and height to spare versatile Lorraine Waggoner makes it over a low hurdle. She is a highlight of the team in the relays.

Mary Ann Tobar displays the wind up position for throwing the discuss. She is a returning trackster.

Track Team Prospects Good

Coaches Don Williams, Ronnie Stout, Louis Boynton, Jabe Brazzle.

Track is a up and coming sport. Now everyone is interested in track whether it is spectator or contestant. In track they can work together because the fans seems to feel every move the athlete makes. It is a team sport. Every individual must do his job for the team, because he may make that little point it takes to capture the team championship. Under the head coach Louis Boynton, the Vernon track team strives for team-work through individual performances. This year the team had very good prospects of being a winner.

Head track coach Louis Boynton gives last minute instructions and tries to answer all the questions before turning the team on it's own.

High jumper Arthur Embers goes over the bar with ease. A high jumper must have spring in his legs.

The sprint relay team members include Jimmy Reece, Robert Crockett, Darrell Gower, and Arthur Embers. The sprint relay is the most exciting race.

Shot putter David Newth, who is a Junior, shows the correct starting position, for throwing the shot.

The Mile relay team members are Jimmy Reece, Mark Jones, Arthur Embers, and David Hill. The Mile relay can be the most important race of the track meet, because it's the last race a team championship can depend on the winner of the race.

Up in the air is Robert Crockett showing excellent form in the board jump. It takes much practice to perfect the form of the broad jump.

Hurdler Jerry Kieschnick has great form as he goes over a low hurdle. Returning from last year he is expected to be an asset.

Pole Vaulters Kim Aronald, Mike Railsback, and Tra Cardwell scramble for top position.

Long distance runners David Hernandez, Kenny Kieschnick, Mark Jones, Arthur Hernandez, and Bill Moore run their mile for training. Some races they run are the mile, 880 and 440.

Junior Kyle Westmoreland exhibits the correct form of throwing the discus. Kyle is expected to be one of the top discus throwers on the Varsity Team.

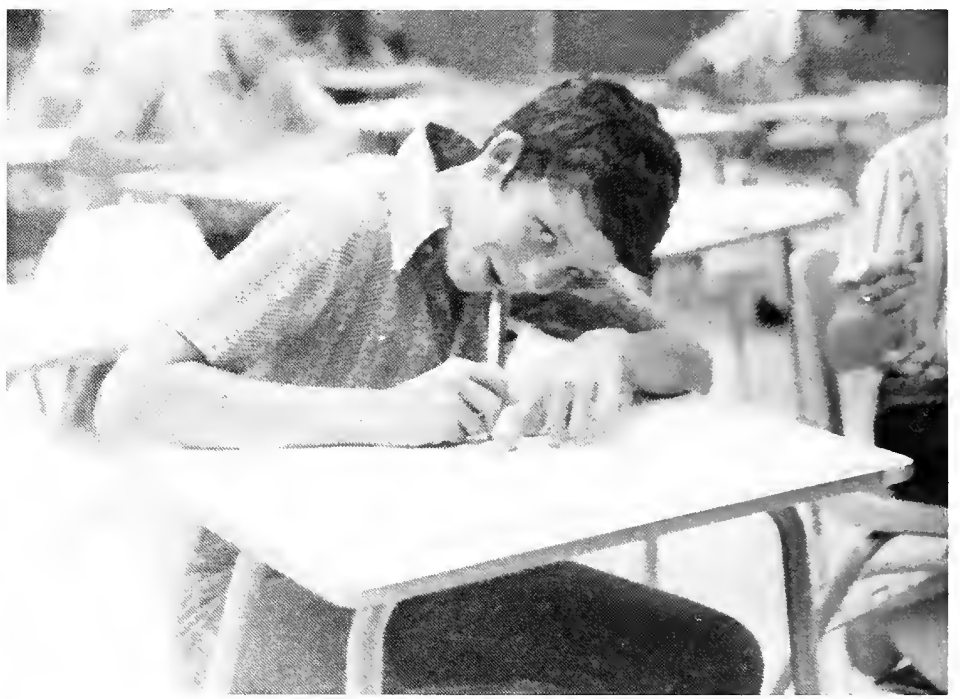

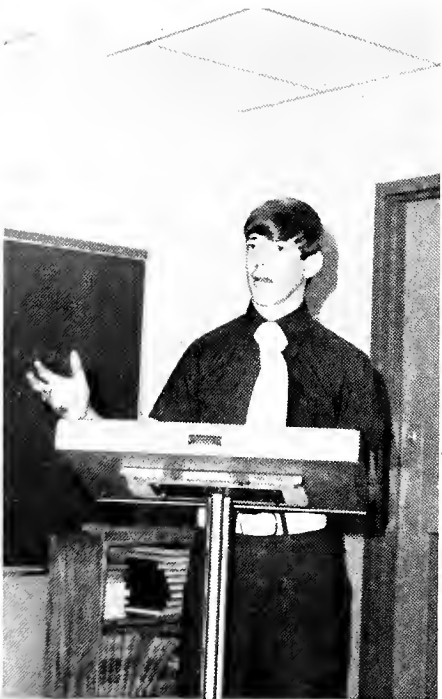

John Harris and Kim Kidd are the shot putters on the Varsity. John and Kim are very good shot putters.

The People

Grouped into four classes students this year came together to mark momentous in history as well as to further their education and develop their individual talents.

Peace at last, deaths of presidents, moon flights, natural disasters, the demise of 'Life' and 'Look' magazines shared the year with the closer at hand events: reporting of grades, football wins and losses, drill team routines, fads and fashions, and mads and glads.

Electing their officers, out-yelling one another, choosing favorites, classes were molded into highly competitive units beginning during their freshman year and ending among tears and embraces at final senior events.

The classes, together and separated, came together.

Principal's Jobs Many, Varied

MR. JAMES EASLEY, Principal

Vernon High School is, to say the least, a living, breathing entity; and Principal James Easley coordinates the affairs, both large and small of 772 students, 50 faculty members, and 4 custodians with amazing facility and efficiency, which traits have marked his tenure. Aiding him in this gargantuan task are Registrar, Mrs. Bess Goss; Secretary to Mr. Easley, Mrs. Theresa Meads; and Secretary to the Guidance Counselors, Mrs. Carolyn Michie.

MR. LOUIS BOYNTON, Assistant Principal

Mr. Louis Boynton serves as Assistant Principal of Vernon High School. Working closely with both students and teachers, Mr. Boynton solves problems relating to attendance, discipline and to the many things that make up any school day — lost lockers, lost books, lost pupils, lost patience. Able and thorough, he knows when understanding helps and when firmness builds character. Mr. Boynton also serves as track coach.

Mr. Charles Bursey, Counselor, and Mrs. Agnes Russell, director of guidance for the entire school system, perform the many tasks which help students to understand themselves and their aims in education and in life. Keeping the student body informed of CEEB, SAT, and ACT tests, Mr. Bursey and Mrs. Russell are always available to explain grades or to assist in college selection — or just to talk it out, whatever the question.

Class of '73 to Be Graduated

Senior class officers for the 1972-73 school year include: Glenda Hawkins, President; Ricky Townson, Vice-President; Melissa Cooke, Secretary; and Gail Wright, Treasurer. These students, interested in their fellow classmates, work very hard to preserve class unity.

With commencement as a grand finale, the curtain rings down on the class of 1973, a group of young women and men who came together as freshmen, shared together events ranging from trivia to some of the most historic moments of the times and who graduated together as a still closely knit class.

Ordering caps and gowns, addressing invitations and practicing a measured step down the auditorium aisles failed to obscure the recent past of the class that produced a breezy and happy "Calamity Jane," signed sunshiny yearbooks, and were feted by the Junior class.

With most seniors exercising their privilege of voting for the first time in the presidential election, fourth year students involved themselves as citizens. Prisoner of War bracelets replaced costume jewelry. Studying and improving the environment replaced putting down the establishment.

At last the Vietnam War ended; seniors knew a country at peace for the first time since primary grades; and they rejoiced with the nation at reunited families as POW's returned.

During one of the coldest, wettest, longest winters in the memory of local residents the class of '73 saw the last Apollo Moon flight and mourned at the death of former presidents Harry S. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Seniors Choose Glenda, Greg

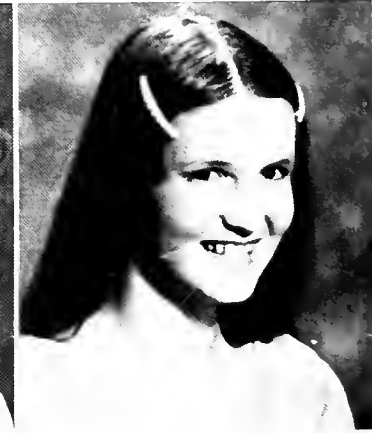

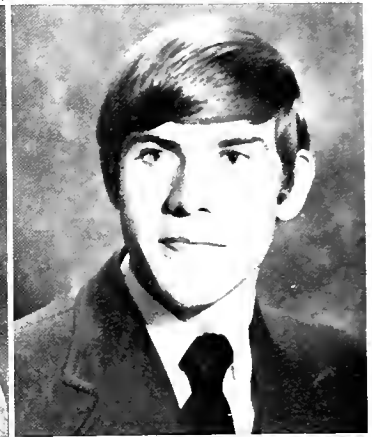

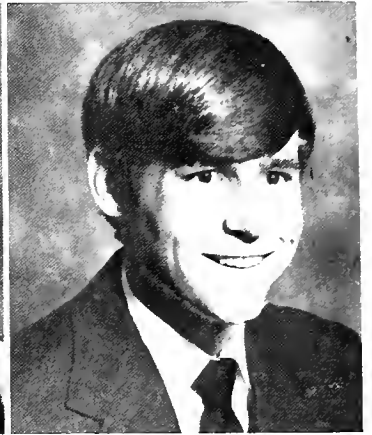

Vivacious Glenda Hawkins and athletic Greg Jones, elected Senior Class Favorites by their peers during February elections, study a massive globe in the school library thinking of the wide world into which they will be graduated at the end of spring semester.

Seniors remember a free, bright, spirited girl who would have been graduated with the Class of 1973 — Melinda Rumage.

Horizons Broaden for Juniors

Representing the Junior Class for the 1972-73 school year are Kim Arnold, President; Becky Graf, Vice-President; Kenny Kieschnik, Treasurer; and Twyla Cato, Secretary. These young leaders symbolize the pride and spirit of the Junior class, soon to be the Senior class.

One giant step away from graduation, the Junior class of 1973 made their presence felt and heard through the corridors and in the classrooms. Opening their year in an August of record breaking heat, the Juniors learned to survive crisis of air-conditioning going off along with stepped-up interest in academic work including American History, Chemistry, higher Mathematics, and languages. During their junior year students became eligible to participate in VOE, ICT, HECE, DE, and Cooperative Agriculture.

Also on the agenda for junior year were stepped-up participation in extra-curricular and co-curricular activities such as journalism, drama and the possibility of being inducted into National Honor Society.

This was the year to raise money for entertaining the seniors. After spending many fall evenings hawking football programs, the class completed its funding with a faculty-senior basketball game complete with half-time entertainment.

Sponsors included Mr. Bob Wall, Mrs. Kathy Brownlow, Mrs. Alta Miller, Mrs. Sue Pennington, Mrs. Sue Davis, Mr. Doyle Close, Mr. Gene Bristo, Mr. Alva Vaughn, and Mr. Nowlin Cox.

Class of 1975 Marches Forth

Sophomore class officers for 1972-73 include: Scott Bearden, President; Deana Wright, Vice-President; Luann Byrd, Secretary; and Cathy May, Treasurer. These second year students use their leadership abilities to benefit their school and fellow classmates.

Adjusted to high school life, the Sophomore Class of 1973 were ready to lead the crowd in fads and fashions and crazes both on a national and local level! Among second year students were the hip-huggingist hip-huggers, the widest palazzos, highest platforms, thickest clogs, and smockiest smocks. Not to be outdone, sophomore men sported sweater vests, brilliant colors, high heels, and a sophomore swagger.

Feeling a true zest for life, second year Lions conducted their elections with vigor, looked forward to the future with eagerness, and at last had a group to look up to them.

A highlight for Sophomore girls was the first opportunity to be a member of Drill Team while the young Lions advanced in sports. All in all, the class had arrived!

Sponsoring the Senior Class of 1975 were Mr. Jack Hunter, Mrs. Jasimine Pace, Mr. Stanley Ripley, Mrs. Inez McCauley, Mrs. Nadine Martin, Mr. Bob Stevens, Mr. Ronnie Stout, and Mr. Rod Howard.

Bobby, Cyndy Voted Favorites

Second year students chose Bobby McMahon and Cyndy Walker for Sophomore Class favorites in elections sponsored by Student Council during the second semester. Bobby and Cyndy work together in the science laboratory over a bunsen burner on a typical school day.

Freshmen Adjust to New Home

Heading the Freshman Class for the 1972-73 school year are Steve Cooner, President; Rex Adams, Vice-President; Doug Duffie, Treasurer; and Elise Moore, Secretary. These students represent the first year students who will someday be the leaders of Vernon High School.

Members of the Senior Class of 1976 appeared on the scene at the right time to share America's bicentennial honors when they are graduated. Taking their cues from those patriots of '76, Freshmen braved a strange building with circular pods and pie-wedge rooms; almost half-a-hundred new teachers; some five hundred upper classmen, and English strain of influenza; one of the coldest, wettest, iciest winters on record; a different principal and assistant principal, and the sardine-packed back hall.

By the close of first semester, the youngest Lions had adapted themselves to what they now realized was not an altogether hostile environment. Most teachers they knew by name and face, restrooms and classrooms were located, hall, became navigable, lock combinations were memorized, clubs were joined and grades improved with security and better study habits.

Eager to participate, first year students zestily elected officers, Student Council Representatives, Homecoming and Valentine Queens, and their own class favorites.

Freshman sponsors included Mr. John Selman, Mrs. Bernice Belew, Mrs. Faye Clark, Mr. Bill Speed, Mrs. Jeanette Lehman, Mrs. Dorothy Boynton, and Mr. Jabe Brazzle.

Dan Miller, Leah Lambert Chosen

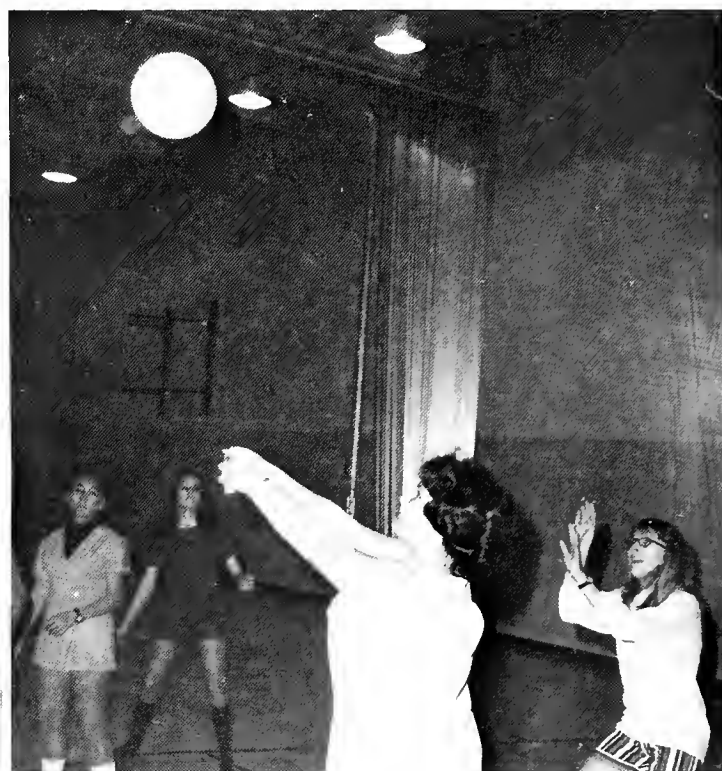

Elected during February polling, Freshman Class favorites Dan Miller and Leah Lambert take a break between classes to become better acquainted with the courtyard lion, pivot for impromptu ral-

Advertising

When the business community and the school can come together in the mutually beneficial advertising pages of a school yearbook, that fact speaks loudly and clearly to tell the world something about Vernon. Only through advertising, purchased by the majority of local businessmen, can the Yamparika lay claim to being a self-supporting journalism laboratory project. Through their pictorial advertising, businesses, services, and institutions not only keep their names before a large number of purchasers and users present and future but also bridge the gap between adult and teen by use of student models. In addition to this, the advertisements offer journalism students down-to-earth lessons in selling, layout, copywriting, and advertising art and photography.

Being the only high school in Vernon has its advantages. The Vernon people really support the kids. They try to stay aware of the activities that high school students are involved in. The adults support V.H.S. drama plays, band concerts, choral programs, and art shows. This gives the students and towns people better communication and fellowship. Apathy remains at a minimum when the students are involved in activities and know that adults are interested in them. But often times they do not realize the interest people have in them. It is hard not to. Civic clubs, church groups, and other organizations spend a lot of time working with and for students. The community is drawn close to Vernon High School through interest.

The relationship between students and teachers is one of the greatest to be found anywhere. Even though there are a few personality clashes, most teachers and students get along and some even establish close friendships. In a larger school, the chance for establishing this relationship is almost nil. There is even time out to play in the snow, pass a joke across the room, or even day-dream about the future. The closeness between players and coaches is exaggerated in a smaller school, although like the classroom clashes, the athletic department has its small tempests. The athlete has almost no choice but to obey the coach, unless he has an excellent excuse. But at least, he has the opportunity to speak out. What a school would be like without the freedom to speak, to learn, and to freely converse with the authority, would be anybody's guess.

The everyday rush of classes often is too much for many students. The rush to get to class besides having to copy a quick homework assignment often drives even the sanest student to revert back to his childhood. Even teachers sometimes finds the stress too much, and explode in a burst of laughter or anger. For students, a childhood toy often is the best security to be found. Although the condition and regulations of Vernon High School are much talked and complained about, most students do realize that they are pretty fortunate to be able to attend this school. This is also true of the town of Vernon. Young people often think that it is terrible to live in Vernon, and that a larger city would be much more exciting. However, deep inside each one knows that they are indeed fortunate to be able to live, go to school, and work in a smog-free green, growing community.
